WITNESSES CALLED IN PROBE OF NURSE'S DEATH

GILLETT REPLACES LODGE

La Follette Platform Is Announced; Demands Scalps of Daugherty and Fall

Cleveland, June 9.—Frederick H. Gillett, speaker of the House of Representatives, today was named as the Massachusetts member of the resolutions committee, succeeding Henry Cabot Lodge, who has held that honor for many years.

The Massachusetts delegation also chose William M. Butler, pre-convention campaign manager for President Coolidge, as their national committeeman. Governor Cox was selected to act as chairman of the delegation in convention.

Cleveland, June 9.—Republican insurgents, acting through the Wisconsin delegation, will ask the national convention formally to condemn the official acts of Harry M. Daugherty, as Attorney General, and Albert B. Fall as Secretary of the Interior.

This is disclosed in an official copy of the insurgent platform made public today by Robert M. La Follette, Jr., son of the Wisconsin Senator, in the name of the Wisconsin delegation.

The statement also demands that Daugherty and Fall "be forever debarred from holding any position of honor on trust within the gift either of the Republican party or any future Republican administration."

WANT EXTRA SESSION.

The insurgents also would have President Coolidge summon Congress into extraordinary session on Monday, July 7, 1924, for consideration of emergency legislation for relief of agriculture, to provide funds for pay-

Bay State Delegates Give Lodge Great Welcome

Cleveland, June 9 (I.N.S.)—Despite the fact that Senator Henry Cabot Lodge was ignored in the assignment of official positions in the convention, he was given a rousing welcome by the Massachusetts delegation when he arrived today to attend the State caucus.

As Lodge, accompanied by Secretary of War John W. Weeks, walked into the room, the Massachusetts delegates arose and applauded for fully two minutes.

WOMEN FIGHT OVER EQUAL RIGHTS PLANK

Cleveland, June 9.—The women will have it out over the equal rights amendment plank before the resolutions committee tomorrow afternoon. Leaders advised Alice Paul and Maude Younger of the women's party, who are lobbying for the resolution, today, that they would be given the fullest opportunity to present their arguments. Likewise representatives of the National League of Women Voters will be given a chance to oppose the amendment.

Speakers for the resolution will be Mrs. Valentine Winters, Dayton, O., Mrs. Arthur A. Kellam, Albuquerque, N. M., and Mrs. Ida J. D'Eglebert, of San Francisco. Miss Julia Lathrop of Chicago probably will lead the opposition.

STEARNS' LETTERS PUT IN

Coakley Gets Them Admitted Over the Objections of District Attorney

Letters, declared to have been written by Captain Charles E. Stearns to his first wife and alleged to have been stolen and shown to Stearns in Grand Rapids, Mich., by an employe of Daniel H. Coakley, were introduced in the Coakley-Corcoran conspiracy trial today.

District Attorney Reading objected to admission of the letters, but they introduced over his objection.

Despite the declaration by Coakley that Mrs. Stearns stole the letters in evidence, Stearns then testified that they were not the letters shown him by Lyons, an employe of Coakley.

Oakley, in the face of constant objection from the district attorney, insisted that he would show the letters to have been in possession of Mrs. Stearns when she consulted him regarding a divorce.

HAD SEEN GORDON.

Stearns started his third day on the stand under cross-examination by Coakley.

Oakley questioned Stearns about the latter's identification of "Captain" Gordon as one of two men who entered the Cambridge apartment and surprised Stearns and Mrs. Pennington.

Stearns' identification of Gordon was made in the courtroom last Thursday. Gordon, who is supposed as a witness, was a captain on the Cambridge police force at the time of the raid.

Stearns stated today that he remembered testifying in direct examination that previous to the raid he had never seen Gordon. He said that was incorrect and that he knew Gordon by sight around the courthouse previous to 1917.

Stearns said: "My testimony on that point was not correct Mr. Coakley, and I'll change it."

Q—Is there any other answer in your testimony which is not correct?
A—I think not.

QUIZZED ON GLOVES.

After a conference at the bench it was decided to admit as an exhibit the pair of women's white gloves which Stearns said may have been in a letter written him by Jessie Penn of Waltham. Judge Whiting told the jury it was up to them to decide the question of fact.

Q—Is there any uncertainty in your mind as to the identity of

Beer for Medicine Banned by U. S. Supreme Court

Washington, June 9.—The Willis-Campbell law prohibiting the sale or importation of intoxicating malt liquor for medicinal purposes today was declared valid and constitutional by the Supreme Court.

Known as the Willis-Campbell beer act, the law was attacked in appeals brought by the Jans Everard's breweries, New York, and by Edward and William Burke, brewers of Gulness' stout.

It was contended that the national prohibition amendment limited the power of Congress to legislation dealing with the use of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes, and that the States alone had authority to regulate the use of liquors for medicinal purposes.

The government combatted the breweries' case with the contention that beer had no medicinal value.

BANDITS SEIZE $11,491 ROLL IN PROVIDENCE

Providence, June 9.—Three masked men armed with rifles and sawed-off shot-guns held up and robbed Harold H. Piper and Philip Devoney, plant superintendent and sales manager, respectively, of the General Baking Company, of a money bag containing cash and checks amounting to $11,491.87 here today.

The robbery took place in the residential section of the city, the bandits using a high-powered automobile bearing a Massachusetts registration formerly held by a Stoneham, Mass., man. They forced the automobile used by the baking company officials to the sidewalk and then covered the men with guns while they removed the money bag from the car.

They escaped in the direction of Taunton, being followed for a short distance by their victims.

VICTIM GETS CAR FARE OF ROBBER

Joseph Pugliese of Wave avenue, Revere, a philanthropic holdup man according to the police, was held in $10,000 bail until Thursday by Judge Creed in Municipal Court today.

Pugliese was charged with robbery while armed of Frank Coughlin, No. 40 Hasking street, Roxbury, on Cornhill, early Saturday morning.

After removing Coughlin's watch, chain and $30 at a pistol point, Pugliese gave his victim 50 cents for carfare, according to the testimony.

WORKMAN INJURED IN ELEVATOR FALL

Patrick J. Kelly, thirty-two years old, married, of No. 29 Ryan street, South End, suffered a fracture of the right ankle when a cable of a freight elevator in which he was working in the Province Building, Province street, broke and the elevator fell twenty feet to the basement. He was removed to the Relief Station.

LOEB READY TO TESTIFY FOR STATE

Hopes to Escape Gallows by Turning on Leopold When Murder Trial Begins

By JACK LAIT
Famous Short-Story Writer and Playwright

Copyright, 1924, by Universal Service.

Chicago, June 9.—Dick Loeb, one of the confessed slayers of little Bobby Franks, is anxious and ready to crawfish. He is willing now to turn State's evidence against Nathan Leopold, his Satanic influence.

It may be authoritatively stated that overtures have been made to this end, though they have not yet reached States Attorney Crowe beyond unofficial advices to him that such a move is being felt out. The intermediary is not acting directly for Albert Loeb, the father of the accomplice whom Leopold sneeringly dubbed "weakling."

But the emissary is both a blood relative and a man of influence. He had communicated with a man publicly but not authoritatively concerned with the case. And his proposition is thus:

WOULD MAKE TERMS.

He offers to plead "Dick" Loeb guilty and accept a long term in the penitentiary—not in an insane asylum, even to a life sentence. The State will pledge itself not to ask the gallows for Loeb; that Loeb will in that event "come clean" on the stand as a witness either for himself in a joint trial, or against Leopold in separate trial.

With Loeb baring everything to a jury he could testify not only to every minute detail of the facts, but to Leopold's attitude, the look in his eyes, the sound of his voice, the subremarks, etc., all non-essentials against any defence except the one which Leopold will assuredly introduce—insanity.

BLOCKS INSANE PLEA.

There could be no better testimony that Leopold was sane than

TO WED DIVORCEE AFTER YEAR IN JAIL

New York, June 9—"Before the setting of another day's sun," District Attorney Banton said today, "Dapper Don" Collins, known from Broadway to the French Riviera by his natty clothes which gave him his nickname, will begin a year's jail sentence for participation in a $5,000 messenger robbery more than four years ago. He was brought back from France to serve the term. At the end of a year "Dapper Don" will be free to marry Mrs. Helen Patterson, divorced wife of Otto Young Hegworth, reputed to be a wealthy Chicagoan.

5 CHILDREN KILLED BY ZINC STEARATE

Chicago, June 9.—Nearly 15,000 physicians of the 90,000 members of the American Medical Association are expected to attend sessions of the convention opening today to continue until Saturday.

One of the first reports presented was the warning of mothers against allowing infants to play with an open can of zinc stearate powder.

BOBBED HAIR BANDIT AND TWO INDICTED

Leona M. Sheehan, alleged bobbed-hair bandit, was indicted today by the Middlesex County Grand Jury on charges of robbery while armed and the larceny of $1.65 from Samuel Litman, a Harvard student. With the girl were indicted her two alleged companions in the Cambridge holdup, William E. Harkins and Richard E. ("Dickie") Robertson, both of Woburn. The alleged bandit was held in $5,000. In default of bail she was returned to the East Cambridge jail.

Thirty-four serious cases, five of them fatal, were reported. The powder, which causes damage on inhalation, was not blamed primarily, an opinion being quoted to the effect that "it did not seem advisable to stop the sale of zinc stearate, if it can be marketed in such a form that it will not be a menace."

U. S. TREASURY HAS $350,000,000 SURPLUS

Washington, June 9.—The Government will close its books for this fiscal year on June 30 with a surplus of between $250,000,000 and $300,000,000, Director Lord of the Budget Bureau today informed President Coolidge.

MEDICAL EXAMINER SUMMONED

Taxi Man Says Miss Locas Bought Poison on Night of Suicide

Assistant District Attorney Robert Bushnell of Middlesex County today called several witnesses to his office in connection with the death of pretty Lila Locas, nurse, who committed suicide Wednesday night on the lawn of Dr. E. W. Small of Belmont. Among those called was Dr. Farrell, acting medical examiner.

Part of the investigation is said to hinge on the discovery that the nurse wore a wedding ring with she failed herself. Inside the ring was engraved: "12-8-23 to L. L. Jr. 1924." This led some of the investigators to the belief that Miss Locas might have secured herself a wife.

Dr. George Durell, acting medical examiner, filed his report today. It stated that the girl was in a normal condition physically.

Considerable significance was attached by the authorities to a letter found by the Rodon Asylum nurse each bears in the yard of the girl's home.

This letter was turned over to Assistant District Attorney Bushnell at his request.

Coakley and friends, Miss Locas's last hours and associated the mystery in which she intended ending herself and Dr. Small into a world beyond.

Royal H. Caswell, Waltham taxicab owner and driver, revealed this today to an American reporter in telling his story of the last ride the nurse took with him. This ride was from Waltham to Harrington Place on the night she found her life no

...Small's lawn after attempting to shoot him.

On the last ride, the girl carried with her a revolver and a can of corrosive sublimate. On the way she stopped at an Allston drug store and purchased cyanide of potassium and strychnine.

"I'm going to ... and [illegible]," she confided to the taxi man.

STOPS AT DRUG STORE

"She had with her a small patent-leather overnight case, also a can wrapped loosely in white paper.

"I asked her what was in the can and she said it was corrosive sublimate. On the way to Boston she ordered me to stop at a drug store at Harvard and Brighton avenues. When she came out she carried a package about the size and shape of a one-pound candy box.

"I asked her what she had bought and she said cyanide of potassium and strychnine.

"After leaving the drugstore she said: 'I have a gun with me and I'm certainly going to raise hell. She was not depressed, but on the other hand appeared exhilarated and a bit hysterical, although at times she laughed and joked.

PAID OWN BILL

Today's developments in the case included the discovery that Miss Locascio had planned to commit suicide for more than a year had tried it once in a Roxbury cemetery, and had purchased a trousseau for her "honeymoon with death."

Another important development was the issuance of his first statement since the tragedy by Dr. Small, in which he admitted having given the girl presents, and the discovery she was an inmate of a Bay State road hospital for up to within two weeks.

Miss Locascio paid her bill at that hospital. No doubt that will account for the money alleged to be missing from her purse and purchased cyanide of potassium and strychnine.

"Nothing but a shovelful of cold gray ashes and a twisted wire remnants of a hat and metal corset stays remained.

TELLS OF STRUGGLE

A Waltham woman, a close friend of the dead girl's, and like woman with whom Miss Locascio spent the last three days of her life, told of the bitter struggle of the Roxbury nurse.

This woman said:

"I first became acquainted with Miss Locascio when she entered the Waltham Training School for Nurses. She was then a very beautiful, a very lovable girl, with a strange aversion for men.

"Strangely enough she did not dance, did not go on parties, never attended the movies, and was never out after nightfall. She was a very wistful, almost morose type—quite out of place in the company of her happy, mirth-loving companions.

MET HER IDEAL

"It was at this juncture that Dr. Small entered her life. In her eyes he was a mighty figure—a physician of the highest standing, a Harvard man, and a man of weight in his town. She used to tell how much she admired, and how he measured up to her ideal of the perfect man.

"Through his efforts she was made district nurse of Belmont.

"The Smalls then took her into their home after Dr. Small had engaged her as an assistant. She became his regular assistant on cases, handling his office matters, attending confinements and even assisting Mrs. Small in the home.

LEFT SMALL HOME

"Three months after she had been thus engaged Mrs. Small went away on her vacation. Then Mrs. Small returned, and Lila left the house.

"Ostensibly, the friendship of Dr. Small and Lila had cooled, but Lila told me he used to call her up. It was then that she confessed that she loved him.

"About a year ago she came out to my house broken-hearted. That night she drank a quantity of veronal, telephoned Dr. Small that she was dying and laid down to die in a Roxbury cemetery.

"Dr. Small rushed out in his automobile, treated her and brought her to the foot of the street where she lived. He refused to bring her to her door. Weakened by the drug she toppled as she reached the steps and fell, breaking her nose and fracturing her skull. The doctor was called in to care for her.

"Dr. Small was asked why he didn't assist her home. 'Oh,' he said, 'I didn't want to be mixed up in the affair. When she called me up I got out of the kindness of my heart, offered to help her. She was loaded with dope, that's all.'

"Three months ago Lila telephoned Dr. Small and told him that she was going to do away with herself if he did not marry her.

"She was completely broken up. Two weeks ago she went to the Waltham office of Dr. Lewis for treatment. She was a wreck. Dr. Lewis realized her condition and called up Dr. Small and asked him to put Lila in a hospital until she recovered. After some hesitation Dr. Small agreed to place the girl in Conant Hospital.

"Lila was there one week, and she herself paid the bill.

OUT OF HOSPITAL

"The day she was released she came to my house. 'I am going to kill myself,' she exclaimed. 'There is nothing left for me to do. I cannot get employment. I am going to kill myself and kill him.

"It was on that day she told me of another fight between her and Mrs. Small and of the latter's threat to sue. Lila drew her entire savings of $400 from a bank. 'I'm going to have a good time,' she told me.

"And from then on until her death the girl was like one possessed. She talked about Dr. Small continually, raved about him for hours.

SAT IN TUB HOURS

"On Monday afternoon she used a whole cake of soap in covering herself with a lather. She then sat in the tub for three hours, brooding, and raving about an injustice she said had been done her.

"On Tuesday, clad only in a nightgown, she ran out of the house at the height of a storm and went to sleep in the bushes for two hours. That night she declared that she was going to kill herself by drinking, and while I was out of the house, drank almost a quart of rum.

"Wednesday her condition was such that I went to Dr. Small myself. I asked him what he was going to do. 'She has left my house and that's all there is to it,' he said.

I'LL KILL HIM

"I had to come back and tell Lila. The effect was crushing. Then she declared: 'I will kill him.' She went upstairs, put on the beautiful clothes she had bought, and when I asked her where she was going, she said 'I am going on my second honeymoon. I have my trousseau. And Dr. Small is going with me. Good-bye.'

"I followed her to Central square, Waltham, where I got her brother. Then we sped into the Copley Plaza where we learned she had registered under the name of Dr. Small. We gained access to her rooms late at night and found that she had left. We left word with the house detective to hold her when she arrived. I then called up Dr. Small to warn him.

"It was too late. She was already dead."

SMALL'S STORY

Dr. Small said to the American:

"I have known the girl for some time and at times when she was hard up I gave her money and presents. I first knew her when she was taking her training course at Waltham hospital. Before this affair happened I had not seen her for four months. In fact I had written her that our friendship had ceased.

"About five months ago she called me on the telephone at midnight. She said she was near a cemetery and that she had taken a lot of veronal pills and that she was dying.

"I went down there in my car and found her outside the main gate. She was almost unconscious and I took her to the home of her aunt, Mrs. Weber, in Roxbury. She had taken an overdose of veronal. I called at her home and treated her the next day. Afterwards she was treated by Dr. Lewis of Lincoln.

DECIDED TO BREAK

"Then I decided to break with her. I have not seen her but have heard from her in the form of scurrilous letters, many of which are unprintable. I burned them. They were addressed both to my wife and myself. Sometimes these were signed, sometimes not."

COOLIDGE IN TOUCH WITH LIEUTENANTS

Washington, June 9 (I.N.S.).—In the calm, undisturbed manner President Coolidge settled back today to wait for the Cleveland convention to name him the Republican candidate for the Presidency and to write the platform upon which he will go before the voters in November.

Mr. Coolidge will be in constant touch with his lieutenants in Cleveland by telegraph so if a word of guidance, or counsel from him is needed, it can be given promptly.

WHERE LOVE MISSIVE WAS RECLAIMED

At top right is fragment of love letter written by ill-fated Lila Locascio (top left), Roxbury nurse who committed suicide after threatening to kill physician with whom she had become enamored. Center picture shows costly articles of wearing apparel purchased just before her suicide by Miss Locascio, who expended nearly $200 for clothing before she took her life. Her relatives were mystified as to what had become of her earnings from a recent case. Miss Locascio dressed herself in her finest and costliest raiment when she went to keep her "rendezvous with death." Picture at bottom shows all that was left of the clothing, love letters and effects of the pretty Roxbury nurse. The girl burned the clothing and letters in the furnace at the home of her aunt, No. 8 Tolman place, Roxbury.

LETTERS FROM STEARNS ARE ADMITTED

Captain Gordon? Was he one of the men or do you merely think so? A.—I would like to leave it that he was one of the men.

Q.—I will now show you the "Jennie Penn" letter and call your attention to the sentence, "I'm sorry the gloves don't fit you. What does that mean to you?

District Attorney Reading objected. Judge Whiting remarked that he did not quite see its importance in this case. Coakley stepped to the bench where the attorneys and after a conference was allowed to ask the following question.

Q.—Did the gloves which Miss Penn sent fit you? A.—I don't know.

Q.—Didn't you write her and tell her that they didn't fit you. A.—I don't recall. That was a long while ago.

Q.—But all of this was a long while ago. All in 1918 wasn't it? A.—Yes.

ON HIS STATIONERY

Q.—I call your attention to the postmark on the envelope. Doesn't it say "Boston, Mass, Feb 27, 1918?" A.—Yes.

Q.—Is the handwriting that of Jennie Penn? A.—Yes.

Q.—And printed in the upper corner are the words "After five days return to Charles E. Stearns, 60 State Street, Boston, Mass?" A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you give her some of your office stationery so that she could write you at Fortress Monroe? A.—No, she was working for me at the time.

Q.—You note she wrote in her letter, "Please note prompt reply." Did you get a prompt reply? A.—I don't know.

Q.—You notice that she mentioned that you had been treating her shabbily in the matter of correspondence? A.—Yes.

INTRODUCES LETTERS.

Q.—Do you know any reason why she should write that to you? A.—I don't recall any reason why she should say that.

Q.—In a letter which you wrote your attorney, Henry F. Fuller, you said, "This man Lyons came to me and said he was from Coakley's office. He showed me letters written to me by my wife during the divorce, are these stolen letters admissable?" Did you refer to any of the letters which I now show you?

Reading objected to the admission of the letters.

Judge Whiting: Do you expect to show, Mr. Coakley, that the letters you now offer are the ones a man named Lyons representing you showed to Captain Stearns in Grand Rapids?

Coakley: I do. I expect to show that these letters were his wife's and he knows they were his wife's. I assume that when he says stolen he means they were first stolen by Mrs. Stearns.

Reading: Probably stolen by Lyons. These letters which Mr. Coakley introduces are certainly not the letters Captain Stearns was writing about anyway.

TRIED TO EXCLUDE THEM.

The letters were admitted, but Stearns said none of them was shown to him by Lyons at Grand Rapids and that he did not recognize the handwriting in any of them.

Stearns said that as he remembered it Lyons showed him one letter but referred to several others.

Q.—When you wrote to Mr. Fuller and him if the stolen letters were admissable in a court trial didn't he reply "I have talked with Robert Parker and he can't see how they can be made competent even in cross-examination"? A.—Yes, he wrote that to me.

Q.—Have you talked with Mr. Fuller about a way in which these letters might be excluded from this trial?

Reading: "I object. These letters are certainly not the letters Captain Stearns referred to and Coakley knows it. The objection was sustained.

TOLD FULLER ALL.

Q.—When State Officer Stokes called on you in Grand Rapids, did he say what you had been indicted for? A.—I don't recall what his said. I suppose it was some offense in connection with the affair in that apartment.

Q.—Did he say it was for a statutory offence? A.—I think he did say it was for that.

Q.—How soon did you see Fuller after the episode in the apartment? A.—I went directly to Lancaster to see him that day.

Q.—And told him the whole story? A.—Yes.

Q.—When did you next see Mr. Fuller? A.—The following month, at Fortress Monroe."

Q.—Did you give him $500 for your first wife? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you know John S. Storer? A.—Yes.

Q.—He was a mutual friend of you and your first wife, wasn't he? A.—He was friendly with Mrs. Stearns, I never looked on him as a very close friend.

U. S. FILMS ARE BOYCOTTED BY JAPANESE

Managers of Theatres Forced to Close by Anti-American Rioters Take Action

Hakodate, Japan, June 9 (A.P.).—Four thousand persons attending an anti-American mass meeting today under the auspices of the Army Reservists' Association, passed resolutions expressing their determination vigorously to oppose the Japanese exclusion measure of the United States.

Tokio, June 9 (A.P.)—Attributing their action to "public demand," owners of motion picture theatres in Tokio at a general meeting today launched a boycott against American films.

Beginning July 1, the theatre proprietors will not buy or rent American films, or show them in their theatres, according to a resolution passed at the meeting. Another resolution was passed, pledging the owners to co-operate in an effort to make the boycott nation-wide.

The boycott is believed to be due partly at least to intimidation of the theatre owners by Patriotic bands incensed at the American immigration measure excluding Japanese from the United States.

INVADED BY RUFFIANS.

Several motion picture theatres showing American films were forced to close when they were invaded by gangs of ronin political ruffians Saturday evening.

Later the Tokio theatre owners sent a committee to Osaka to urge extension of the boycott to that section. Tokio's Sunday largely was given over to various phases of Anti-American agitation.

Throughout the day, the grave in Aoyama Cemetery of the unknown subject of the Mikado who committed suicide by hari kari, as a protest against enactment of the American exclusion measure, was a mecca for thousands of pilgrims who came to pay their devotions to the man who has become a martyr in the public eye.

A mammoth crowd attended a public memorial service over the grave. Hundreds of wreaths were banked around the small mound of earth, where the body lies. Viscount Kato, newly-named premier, and former Premier Takahashi sent wreaths.

The Kokumin Taibeikai or "National Association to Direct American Policy," and the "Black Dragon Society," another patriotic organization were the principal promoters of the public services.

SEPARATE CHURCHES.

The "Great Forward Society" was responsible for the demonstration at the Imperial Hotel Saturday night when a gang of ronin or political ruffians, disrupted a dance to make Anti-American speeches.

Mounting the pulpit of the Ginza Methodist Church after the services the group announced that they intended to campaign for a separation of the Japanese Christian churches from the American bodie among all the native Christian organizations.

Buddhist priests held an Anti-American meeting at the Central Buddhist Hall in Tokio last night.

Several organizations of "modern women" have combined to form a "Japan United Women's Association," with the avowed purpose of promoting an Anti-American boycott.

Japan to Investigate Tokio Demonstration

Tokio, June 9 (A.P.).—Thorough investigation is made of the demonstration staged at a dance in the Imperial Hotel Saturday evening by a group of political ruffians, it was said at the Japanese foreign office today.

Until such investigation is made, however, it is pointed out, no official action can be taken toward punishing the offenders.

They emphasized, however, that the demonstration was not aimed directly against Americans, but against Japanese whom the "patriots" considered were indulging in frivolous amusement with foreigners at a time when the intruders believed that the country had been insulted. Police have not made any arrests.

PARTY LEADERS URGE LOWDEN TO RUN

Cleveland, June 9 (I.N.S.).—An eleventh hour attempt to have Frank O. Lowden, former Governor of Illinois, reconsider his determination not to become a running mate with President Coolidge was being made today.

Several prominent administration leaders here have telegraphed to Lowden, who is at Oxford, O., urging him to allow his name to be placed on the ticket. They feel confident the former Governor will listen favorably to their pleadings.

HARVARD'S 'PRINCE MIKE' EXPOSED BY POLICE AS EAST SIDE WAIF

BRANDED AS 'CHEAP CON MAN'

Alleged Scion of Russian Royalty Is Declared to Be Plain Harry Ferguson

Prince Michael Dimitry, alleged scion of the royal Romanoffs of Russia, has been exposed.

Prince "Mike," whose bad check activities at Harvard University brought him before the courts, is plain Harry Ferguson, a waif of New York's East Side, according to the police.

Prince "Mike" Dimitry

Entertained in the most fashionable homes in this country, financed by a number of wealthy merchants, Prince "Mike" is nothing but a "cheap con man," Chief of Police Paul Woolsey of Kansas City declares.

Possessed of a colorful history, replete with criminal prosecutions, Ferguson owed his success to the lavishness of wealthy persons with whom he ingratiated himself, the police say.

His passport into society was the vague fallsman of the crown jewels of Russia, the location of which was known only to him.

WELL KNOWN TO POLICE.

"Prince Mike's" career began, as far as the police could learn, at Gilsboro, Ill., where he had been placed in the home of F. L. McDavid at the age of twelve years, by a New York charitable institution.

He attended school there for a time, dropped out of sight, and turned up in Litchfield, a nearby city, which he was forced to leave, it is said, because of his propensity for taking property of others.

On October 25, 1915, under the name of Arthur Ewart Wellesley, the prince was arrested at New Scotland Yard charged with obtaining money under false pretences. The Prince was also wanted for obtaining money under false pretences. This was also in Scotland Yard. He was sentenced to six months in jail and one day. The one day was for breach of the alien laws.

Less than a year later Ferguson again fell into the hands of the British police for stealing a dress and other articles, and was sentenced over to keep the peace for two years.

TRAVELLED AS PRINCE.

Ferguson was unable to keep out of trouble, however, and was taken into custody less than a month later, on June 19, 1921, for making a false statement to an alien official. He served a short term, and on July 1, 1921, was up again for larceny. This time he was given a month in jail and ordered deported.

A short time later "Prince Mike" returned to his native land on the President Adams. He travelled in the steerage under the name of Ferguson, but his trunks bore the labels: "Monsieur Le Prince Obolesky, Carlton Hotel, Champs Elysees, Paris, and Hotel Savoy, Nice."

AIDED BY RICH MAN.

Sent to Ellis Island and then in a hospital for observation, Ferguson escaped and began his career as a scion of nobility. Wearing spats, carrying a stick and using an English accent, he cut a wide swath through the West, leaving behind him a trail of bad checks and petty larcenies.

He was sent to Yale University by a wealthy man, said George F. Lindsay, a St. Louis banker, financed him for a time at Harvard. Wherever he went his peculiar faculties were put to work, with the result that he has at length been exposed.

REVERE GIRL LOYAL TO PAYROLL THIEF

MISS MARIE STAFFORD

Walking off with a $4,389 payroll is no reason, pretty Revere girl says, why she should abandon her sweetheart who became conscience stricken and returned to face the music. "The fact that he returned to take his medicine proves him a real man and I am going to stick to him," she asserts.

PLANS TO MARRY AS SOON AS POSSIBLE

Not one bit does it matter to Miss Marie Stafford of No. 418 Ocean avenue, Revere, that her sweetheart, Arthur A. Anderson, walked off with a $4,389 payroll of the F. J. Hasker Shoe Co., Reading.

Miss Stafford will marry him just the same. He has proved himself a real man by walking back again and giving himself up to the police. That is her declaration.

The paymaster, who vanished last February after drawing the payroll money from a Reading bank, will not be sentenced, his fiancee says, for his misdeed. It is her womanly intuition that makes her certain of that she declares.

"He was one of those men who made a mistake," she declared. "He stole on an impulse and from the time he fled, he was tortured by his conscience. But he put off his return from week to week, until finally he could not endure it any longer, and gave himself up to justice, prepared to pay whatever penalty should be demanded.

"All his friends are loyal to him. They believe in him. I am loyal to him. I believe in him. I am going to marry him, just as soon as I can."

Miss Stafford hastened to the East Cambridge jail when she heard that her sweetheart had returned. It was the first time she had heard of him since his disappearance, she asserted.

She did not influence him to return, she said, because she had no means of knowing where he was. She would not have urged him, anyway.

"I wanted him to be man enough to come back of his own accord," she said. "Now he has proved that he is a real man."

Miss Stafford will stick by Anderson, come what may. When asked if she would marry him if he went to jail on a sentence, she reiterated her belief that he would not go to jail. She would entertain no other possibility.

2 HELD AFTER CHASE AS STORE LOOTERS

Two young men made the grave error of walking out of a dry goods store which they are alleged to have looted, as two patrolmen were standing at the patrol box in front of the store door today. Patrolmen D. Greene and O'Leary ordered them to halt. With the men ran the officers gave chase and quickly caught them.

The young men gave their names as Cornelius Clifford, twenty-four, Dwight street, South End, and David Heffernan, twenty-three, Camden street, Roxbury. Police allege they broke into the store of Minos Manufact. Co., 50 Camden street, and took [illegible]

BURRELL SAYS HIS CONDUCT WASN'T RUDE

Wife of Former State Treasurer Faints During Altercation Over Parking Car

Former State Treasurer Fred J. Burrell, who was arrested in Medford square for alleged profanity and "rude and disorderly behavior," [illegible] for trial on the charges today in Malden court.

Mrs. Burrell

On request of his counsel, Thomas P. Hurley, Judge Bruce granted a continuance until Wednesday morning. Burrell was freed on his personal recognizance. He refused to make a statement today.

The former State Treasurer was arrested by Traffic Officer Barber in Medford square, following an altercation over Burrell's parking his car in front of the Medford Trust Company.

Barber ordered Mrs. Burrell to drive the car away. She protested that she could not operate the machine. According to Burrell, when he came out of the bank, the police man was swearing in Mrs. Burrell's presence.

Burrell told the officer he had left the car there and he was the man Barber should talk to.

Then, according to Burrell, the officer pushed him away and declared that it was no affair of Burrell's.

In the altercation that ensued, Mrs. Burrell fainted.

Burrell has brought charges, he said, against the traffic officer.

FOREST FIRES IN MAINE CONTROLLED

Greenville, Me., June 9.—Three hundred men with two gasoline pumpers today were keeping watch of the forest fires which started several days ago near Nahmakatla Lake in Township 1, Range 11, north of Greenville, and west of Millinocket.

Today the situation was greatly improved, the fire fighters reporting not much wind and everything quiet. Rain will be required, however, to extinguish the fires, although they have not burned beneath the surface of the ground as would be the case later in the year. There has been considerable rain, and snow is still present in sections of the forests.

"Dumb Queens" Poor Matrimonial Risk, Says Pastor

Worcester, June 9.—Tailors' dummies, cigarette fiends, and beautiful but dumb queens were placed on the matrimonial index expurgatorius by Rev. Fred Alan MacDonald in a sermon at the Old South church.

Rev. Mr. MacDonald declared it was a fallacy to believe that two can live as cheaply as one, and made the flat statement that while a woman doubles a man's expenses she also doubles his happiness.

He said there was no question which demands the exercise of gray matter as much as matrimony, and urged a single standard of morals.

"Sterling moral character should be one of the chief qualifications of a young woman," he concluded. "Stores discount their shop-worn goods because too much handling spoils the merchandise and removes its freshness and bloom."

REFUNDS ON TAX PAYMENTS MUST WAIT CONGRESS

Washington, June 9.—Failure of Congress to pass the second deficiency appropriation bill carrying among other items one for administering the bonus law was discussed by President Coolidge and Budget Director Lord today, after which it was indicated that the action was not expected seriously to delay operation of the compensation law.

Several months must elapse necessarily before payments under the law could be started and that pending that time administrative expense would be the only necessity. Favorable action on the bill in Democratic circles was indicated after today's conference, would meet the situation.

Federal income tax payers, however, who made full payments on March 15, will not be able to get their 25 per cent refund allowed by the new revenue law until the bill is passed. An appropriation of more than $71,000,000 will be need in making the refunds was carried in the appropriation bill.

The whole situation created by the failure of the deficiency bill was gone over at the conference, and afterwards it was said that only one provision of the bill would be carried out in full an item for $2,000,000 to fight the foot and mouth disease in California. Director Lord said funds for this were available from a surplus in the agricultural department.

DASHES TO N. Y. ON SPECIAL; COST $1127

R. W. Allen, Millionaire Underwear Manufacturer, Is Rapid-Fire Commuter

R. W. Allen, Boston and New York rapid-fire commuter, has slimmed down his bankroll by an other $1,127 plus, just because he wanted to get back to his home for a nap.

Allen, millionaire underwear manufacturer, gas boatman and optimist of New York, is the man who arrives at the South station early in the morning after all the hotel accommodations have been put to bed, and demands transportation to Gotham.

This give it to him—a $1,127 per transportation, which entitles him to an engine, a tender and a Pullman car, with all the fixins.

He did it again at 2 a. m. Friday morning. It was learned today.

Yes, the underwear business is very good.

Rides 750,000 Miles in 17 Yrs; Begins 10,000 Mile Vacation Trip

New York, June 9.—Few men have ridden on trains as much as Fred Garrison. For 17 years a New York Central railroad conductor, he has started out to spend a month's vacation riding. He has ridden 750,000 miles as a business. He is off now to add 10,000 more to his record—this time as a diversion.

"I don't how many miles a fellow travels," Garrison said, "but how far he gets that counts."

Garrison, who has been a conductor on the Hudson division of the New York Central most of the time, will visit Seattle, San Francisco and points between.

PIGEON LANDS ON SHIP 200 MILES OFF SHORE

Two hundred miles out on the high seas the Elizabeth Simpson was hove to, shifting, the crew on its mettle when Skipper McLaren espied a bird flying toward the ship. It was a homing pigeon. When it dropped, exhausted, on deck Skipper McLaren found leg bands with the inscriptions "929 A. J. '20 Va." and "R. 1923."

The bird today was turned over to the Shore Fish Company for delivery to its owner.

COP DEMOTED IN CASE OF MISS ROCKEFLLER

And Court Attendant Transferred for Having Her Speed Record Changed

New York, June 9.—Frank Doran, Traffic Court attendant whom a policewoman accused with having distorted that the speed he entered in the name of Miss Alice Rockefeller, accused of speeding while it was transported to the Queen's Park court he was transferred to the Magistrate's court today.

Doran says that the good of the department means just as much as the welfare of Miss Rockefeller.

Edward Fleming, motorcycle policeman who accused Miss Rockefeller of speeding, was demoted.

RABBI ASSAILS NEW 'FLAPPER RELIGION'

Former Worcester Cleric Lays Franks Murder to the Decadence of Faith in Young

New York, June 9.—This is an age of flapper religion. The congregation is composed of men and women with bungalow minds.

From the upper reaches of the Bronx this choking of present day decadence has been broadcast by Rabbi Julius J. Pope, formerly of Worcester, Mass., but now leader of the Sinai Congregation of the Bronx Stebbins avenue and 163d street.

"You hear some people say, 'It's old-fashioned to go to church!' or 'It's old-fashioned to go to the synagogue,' declares Rabbi Pope. 'The style today is to adopt an air.'

"We are living in an age of turmoil and unsettlement, when many of the sacred principles of life and the heritage of our Constitutional fathers is being daily nullified by the representatives of a flapper religion and men and women of the bungalow type of mind.

"Take the case of Leopold and Loeb, the two young Chicago students with all their great learning, they were nothing but atheists. The life they led was without feeling for humanity. Instead of trusting in their millions, they should have trusted in God Almighty.

"All this has been fought for to bring low sight of. Instead of becoming a blessing, we are becoming a scourge to this world. Instead of fortifying the feeling of brotherhood between men, this flapper religion kills it."

KATO TO FORM NEW JAPANESE CABINET

Tokio, June 9 (A.P.)—Viscount Kato today accepted the command of Prince Regent Hirohito to form a new cabinet. His ministry will succeed that of former Premier Kiyoura and will be in condition at fair. The tentative line-up of ministers includes two members of the opposition party, one member of the Kakushin reformist party, and three ministers drawn from the Kenseikai party, of which Premier Kato is the leader.

Baron K. Shidehara, former ambassador to the United States and Viscount Ishii, formerly special envoy to the United States, are considered likeliest candidates for the Foreign Office portfolio.

DOISY ENDS HIS FLIGHT AT TOKIO

Tokio, June 9 (A.P.)—Completing a hazardous flight across Europe and Asia to the Far East, Captain Georges Pelletier Doisy, intrepid French aviator, landed at the arms flying field at Tokiorewaw, fifteen miles northwest of here, at 11.40 o'clock this morning.

He was given an enthusiastic reception by several thousand spectators, which included the entire staff of the French Embassy and Lieutenant General Yazumitsu, chief of the army aviation service.

His flight from Paris to Tokio in forty-five days shatters by many weeks a previous flight record made by Italian fliers in 1920.

MANCHESTER N. H. LOPS OFF 23 FIREMEN

Manchester, N. H., June 9. (U.N.S.) Failure of the board of aldermen to appropriate sufficient funds resulted in the dismissal today of 23 members of the city's fire department. Three of the most important stations were closed indefinitely. Engine Five, one of the most important stations, answered its last call today, when fire destroyed the dwelling at 72 Oak street, causing $8,000 damage.

Smart Set to Flock to Harvard and Yale Boat Race, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN.

THOUGH June's bridal procession occupies an important share of society's attention, the aquatic combat between the Blue and the Crimson will draw as enormous a throng as ever to New London on the 19th and 20th.

This time-honored racing classic of the Thames probably brings together more socially distinguished folk than any other sporting event. Society from Boston, Gotham, Washington and the Quaker City is always well represented, while many others come in from more distant places for this affair and the other commencement activities.

Mrs. Harold Coolidge

A whirl of festivities is being planned in connection with the races, many of the gayest centering about the Greek. Among the Boston folk who have already made reservations at Inn hotel are Mrs. Harold J. Coolidge, the Eben S. Draper, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Adie, the Robert L. Raymonds of Brookline and Mrs. Herbert F. Otis of Brookline.

Mary Stuart Otis

Miss Otis, who was presented with the buds of last Winter, was to the band of girls marshalled together by Miss Polly Webster to assist at the street fair held on Saturday at the Webster estate.

There were countless attractions at the fete, but the improvised dance floor of canvas on the lawn proved a great drawing card for members of the younger element.

Among those whom I saw dancing about were Harriet Bovlen, Margaret Curtis, Elinor Condit and Rosamond Hambard.

Auburn-haired Mrs. Geiston King stood at the entrance to the "dance floor," beguiling each passing cavalier to "go get himself a girl, and come on in and dance."

MR. AND MRS. PHILIP L. SALTONSTALL of Dedham are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a son born to them on June 4th.

Society Notes

MISS HELOIR MEYER has opened her villa at Lenox, as has also Mrs. Raymond T. Baker. The latter gave a birthday party at "Holmwood" for her little daughter Gloria shortly after her arrival in Lenox.

Rear Admiral and Mrs. Cameron McR. Winslow of Bay State road have arrived with their family in Newport. They will occupy the Corcoran cottage on Narragansett avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin W. Appleton of Buffalo, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Catherine Appleton, to Livingston Fryer, son of Mrs. Robert Livingston Fryer of the same city. Miss Appleton is a grand-daughter of the late Major Charles H. Appleton of Boston.

The Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Paul Revere Frothingham of Boston are now in Lenox at the Curtis House.

FEAR GAELIC DOOMED AS OFFICIAL TONGUE

London, June 9.—Of the nine new judges appointed to the high courts in Dublin, including Hugh Kennedy and Timothy Sullivan, none is able to speak Gaelic, although that is now the official language of the courts, and the statutes are printed therein with English translation, according to the Daily Mail. An attempt is to be made to give the official language its place in the courts but, the paper believes, it is foredoomed to failure.

IT'S WINTER OUT IN WESTERN MONTANA

BOSTON POSTAL CLERKS BITTER OVER PAY ROLL

President Coolidge's veto of the Postal Salaries Increase Bill has aroused a storm of protest from postal employes.

The President's action will prove injurious to the Republican party as a whole, according to John A. Kelley, president of Local 100, National Federation of Postoffice Clerks and secretary-treasurer of the Massachusetts Federation of Postoffice Clerks.

"To say that the presidential veto of the postal pay bill came as a severe shock and distinct disappointment to as loyal and hard-working a group of employes as any employes ever assembled—would be putting it very mildly," President Kelley stated.

"From a political angle the veto apparently is a mistake, as it will naturally embitter postal employes and their friends whose strength in numbers is conservatively estimated at more than a million.

"This veto is also a repudiation of one plank in the Republican platform of 1920. It will be recalled that, in June, 1920, the Republican party adopted a plank, 'The Postal Service should be improved and postal employes granted decent working conditions and adequate wages.'

Confident that the salary increase bill would be passed over the President's veto at the next session of Congress was expressed in a telegram received by the state branch of the National Association of Post Office Clerks from C. P. Franciscus, president of the national organization.

The message was received in Harmony hall, Brockton, at the twenty-fourth annual convention of the state branch.

FATHER OF LATE NAT GOODWIN DEAD

Nat C. Goodwin, father of the celebrated comedian, the late Nat Goodwin, died at his home, 72 Forest st., Roxbury, after an illness of several weeks. Mr. Goodwin was in his 92d year. Funeral services will be held at the home at 2 o'clock today afternoon.

REDMOND TO GO ON TRIAL ON JULY 8

George F. Redmond, Boston broker, and co-defendants, charged with conspiracy to use the mails to defraud, and with using the mails to defraud, will go to trial in the United States Federal Court, July 8, according to a tentative agreement between counsel and prosecuting authorities today.

Judge Morton set that as a tentative date. All hinges on whether or not Judge Lowell will be able to be present to sit on the case. If he can be present the trial will start. If he can't the trial date will be changed.

Others indicted who will go to trial with Redmond include: James S. Lamont, president of George F. Redmond & Co., Inc.; Roy F. Sheridan, George A. Coates, Charles Peipenbrink, a former treasurer, William N. Sheridan, Sr., William M. Sheridan, Jr., John R. Diggins, Arthur Diggins and Warren N. Withington. The indictments are all in connection with a partial payment scheme for buying stock engaged in by the Redmond firm, covering the period from May 4, 1915, up to March 8, 1924.

CANCER CURED PHILADELPHIA ANNOUNCES

Discovery and Isolation of Germ and Anti-Toxin Serum Proclaimed

Philadelphia, June 9.—That the cancer germ has been discovered and isolated and that an apparently successful anti-toxin serum also has been found are achievements credited here to Dr. T. J. Glover, a native of Ontario who has been making four years' experiments in New York.

Within the last two years this serum has been tested on more than 500 cases of cancer confirmed by pathological X-ray and clinical histories, and in every stage of development from incipiency to hopeless case, it is stated.

Nearly 100 of these have been treated in the National Stomach Hospital in Philadelphia, where the most complete tests have been made and the largest number of patients observed.

In a majority of these cases, it is declared, favorable results have been secured and in some instances the subjects have been discharged as symptom-free, a condition the cancer would rail cured.

This discovery of the cancer germ leads logically to the bone that a method soon may be found for determining the presence of the micro-organism in the blood, thus making possible the detection of the disease in incipiency and its prevention.

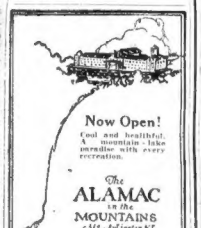
Dr. Glover already has made significant experiments along this line, with decidedly encouraging results, it is stated.

WIFE OF LINCOLN'S SON SERIOUSLY ILL

Manchester, Vt., June 9.—Mrs. Mary Lincoln, wife of Robert T. Lincoln, only surviving son of President Abraham Lincoln, is ill at her summer estate here, suffering from a compound fracture of her leg.

The injury resulted from a fall in her home shortly after the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln from their home in Washington, D. C., a few weeks ago. The attending physician said today that Mrs. Lincoln was resting comfortably and that the condition was improving satisfactorily.

Mrs. Lincoln is 78 years old. It was said that the services of a New York specialist and special nurses had been obtained.



POLICE GUARD DOVER MILLS' REOPENING

Strike Begun Last November Ends by Vote, but the City Marshal Calls for Protection

Dover, N. H., June 9.—Reopening of the Pacific Mills here after a strike that began last November was accomplished today with the assistance of strong police details from this city, Nashua and Lowell.

Picketing by the One Big Union was forbidden by City Marshal Charles C. Crowley, who told the police to keep everyone moving and prevent the gathering of groups.

It was announced that only 75 operatives would start in at first, working on 500 looms as a test to learn what they can accomplish. The strike was originally called in protest against extra work without extra pay. It was settled by a vote at a meeting last week.

Marshal Crowley, fearing a repetition of the disorders that marked an attempt to reopen the mills five or six weeks ago, asked for aid from outside cities.

As a result of his precautions there was no trouble today, the operatives passing into the mills unmolested. Overseers and mill officials were at the gates, selecting the workers for the experimental work.

LOSES WIFE AND BABY; THEN TRIES SUICIDE

Despondent over separation from his wife and child, Francis J. Kelly of Brockton attempted suicide by gas poisoning in a room on Bennet street, South End, today. Kelly was registered as J. Carson of No. 75 Walnut street, Philadelphia. He was resuscitated by Patrolmen Flaherty and Davenport and sent to City Hospital. On his refusal to remain there he was sent to the Psychopathic Hospital.

Kelly wrote a note, saying:

"My wife and baby are lost to me and I'm alone in heart and mind. God forgive. I can't search for them any longer. Goodby."

HAWAIIAN VOLCANO VIOLENTLY ACTIVE

Honolulu, June 9 (A.P.)—Kilauea volcano, which has been somewhat quiet for nine days, after great activity the latter part of last month, is again violently active. The first explosion within the crater since May 30 occurred yesterday, preceded by earth tremors. The explosion was not very violent, but dust clouds were heavier than has been the case with many others.

Professor T. A. Jaggar, volcanologist, said the earthquakes were a bad sign and indicated renewed activity within the volcano.

A single teaspoonful of DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPSIN Will restore good humor

Mothers!! Apply Common Sense

THIS is the era of the prevention of disease and sensible people do not wait until sickness has actually come before remedying the trouble. The crowded hospitals everywhere are sad examples of the results of neglect. Be especially watchful of children. Restlessness, lack of normal appetite and feverishness usually indicate constipation. Stop it that instant with a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and you will have prevented real sickness. Mrs. Ida Williamson of 1657 Pine St., Long Beach, Cal., and Mrs. Lou Hawley of Self Aid, never have illness in the family because of their prompt use of Syrup Pepsin.

A Great Family Laxative

It may be difficult to decide just what medicine to use out of the many that are offered, but it would not be if you knew the facts. There are laxatives, cathartics, purgatives and physics, and they vary in their reaction on the system. Naturally, the stronger the medicine the more it shocks the system, so wise parents never give anything but a laxative to children. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a mild laxative, a vegetable compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and desirable aromatics, and so appreciated that it is now the largest selling preparation of its kind in the world, over 10 million bottles being used annually. The formula is on every package.

Three Rules of Health

Purchase a bottle of Syrup Pepsin at a drug store and always keep one in the family medicine chest. Give it to anyone from infant to grandparent, for it is safe, and the cost is less than a cent a dose. You can keep a family healthy with just this simple medicine. Give it for constipation, torpid liver, indigestion, biliousness, headaches, colds and other evidence of bowel obstruction. Dr. Caldwell, who was a practicing physician for 47 years and who originated this formula, had three rules of health that he found very effective among his patients and which you can follow with great benefit: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, and the bowels open.

ALIEN QUOTAS PROVIDED BY NEW LAW

Figures Given to Steamship Lines Allow Yearly Entry of 160,000 Foreigners

Washington, June 9.—New quotas of immigrants for the fiscal year beginning July 1 are being compiled by an interdepartmental committee.

Under the Act of Congress so long delayed by the Japanese exclusion clause, but signed by the President, the quotas will be based upon two per centum limit of all nationals residing in the United States by the census of 1890, instead of three per cent by the census of 1910.

While the following are not official they are based upon the two per cent. plan, and have been sent to steamship companies for their guidance:

Africa	100	Italy	3,845
Albania	100	Latvia	142
Andorra	100	Lithuania	362
Atlantic Islands	100	Luxemburg	100
Australia	226	Netherlands	1,648
Austria	900	New Zealand	100
Belgium	1,563	Norway	6,453
Bulgaria	100	Other Asia	100
Czechoslovakia	1,973	Other Europe	100
Danzig	228	Palestine	100
Denmark	2,789	Persia	1,782
Egypt	100	Poland	5,977
Estonia	100	Portugal	474
Finland	142	Rumania	603
France	3,978	Spain	124
Germany	50,198	Switzerland	2,081
Great Britain	34,138	Syria	100
Greece	100	Turkey	100
Hungary	488	Yugoslavia	230
Iceland	100

The totals are 150,000 under new quotas, as compared with 357,000 under the old quotas. Small countries are given a minimum of 100, which really increases their allotments.

DEPEW, BACK ON JOB, TOO BUSY TO TALK

New York, June 9.—Chauncey M. Depew, chairman of the board of the New York Central Railroad, was back at his desk today for the first time since he was confined to his home ten days ago with a sore throat. "Feeling well," he wrote to newspapermen waiting to see him, "he said he was too busy to give an interview. Mr. Depew recently celebrated his 90th birthday.

PAINTING SOLD FOR $100 IS WORTH $20,000

New York, June 9.—A painting which sold at public auction two months ago for less than $100 and was later picked up at approximately $500 by Grosvenor B. Clarkson, director of the Council of National Defence under the Wilson administration, has been identified as a Gainsborough.

It is a portrait of Mrs. Garrick, wife of the noted actor. G. Frank Miller, one of the leading experts on eighteenth century English paintings, declared it was worth $20,000.

TWO DYING IN WEEK-END AUTO ACCIDENTS

Hub Beauty Parlor Owner Victim in Gloucester Crash; Four Pinned Under Car

Two persons are dying and a score of others badly injured as the result of automobile accidents over the week-end.

Among those on the season's list are casualties for Miss Marilla Prentiss, proprietor of a beauty shop at No. 648 Tremont street. She is at Addison Gilbert Hospital, Gloucester, with a fractured skull.

Miss Prentiss was riding with John B. Wales of No. 31 Parker Hill avenue, Roxbury, when the Welch automobile, a stalled machine in Gloucester, which disappeared after the accident.

Four men were dragged from under an overturned automobile at Dunstan's curve and Massachusetts avenue, Arlington, by Patrolman Thomas H. Nolan of the Back Bay station. The men pinned beneath the car were Sidney and Robert Long of No. 19 Eastman street, Dorchester, and William H. and Carroll Butler of No. 5 Norfolk street, Dorchester.

A speeding car operated by Wilford Chisholm of No. 170 Belmont street, Lynn, plunged into the rear end of a Bay state trolley car in Chelsea. Chisholm and Richard Valente of No. 126½ Allen street, Lynn, went to Chelsea Memorial Hospital with fractured skulls. Miss Mary Blaisdell of No. 18 Kelvin street, Lynn, has a broken leg. Her husband, Frank, and two small daughters were also injured.

Eugenia Bertucci, nineteen of No. 14 High street, Dedham, was found unconscious in his car on Washington street, Wellesley. He had driven into a post. No signs of injuries were found but Bertucci remained unconscious several hours. Police believe he had been drugged.

Malden Policeman Found in Helpless Condition After Failing to Ring in Duty Call

George E. Dooling, for nine years a policeman on the Malden police department, was found in a helpless condition behind a building opposite the Malden police station today.

At present today he will be recommended for dismissal on charges of conduct unbecoming an officer.

Dooling, a war veteran, was discovered by superior officers after a few hours search instituted when he failed to ring duty calls. He declares he said he left for home because he was sick and took some medicine.

The officer stated some time recently after he complained to a municipal official who had visited a coffee law. Dooling lived at the municipal home where he lived to that time.

The policeman said he fired at the ground and the bullet ricochetted. He was reprimanded and returned to duty.

"Listen in" to your motor

by The Veteran Motorist

© 1923, S. O. Co. N. Y.

I THINK a good motor fan is a good deal like a good radio fan—both like to feel that they are getting the best out of their equipment, and both insist upon buying the best.

After all, this "listening in" business is not confined to music in the air. Every careful motorist listens in to his motor, and as he tunes it up to get the proper mixture, and to see that the lubrication system is on the job, he is quick to detect the presence of a poor oil in the crank case or faulty chassis lubrication.

Socony Motor Oil will tune up any motor to the highest degree of efficiency. It fights friction. It cushions each moving part with an indestructible film of oil. It helps seal the piston rings so that no gasoline seepage can occur. It withstands the tremendous heat of high speeds or the long hard pulls. It is fit for any task of pleasure driving or heavy duty hauling. Made right, sold right, it is right.

Tune up your motor with Socony Motor Oil, and listen to the sweet music of its satisfaction. Don't accept a substitute.

For transmissions and differentials, use Socony Gear Compound or Socony Gear Oil. See the Socony Chart.

Looking after your fences

The directors of the Massachusetts Bank voted April 14, 1784:

"That Mr. Russell be desired to order his friends in Russia to purchase and ship an iron fence by the first ship from thence to be placed in front of the Bank agreeable to the model exhibited by Col. Dawes provided the same can be shipped at or under 120 pounds sterling."

WHEN they wanted the right kind of an iron fence, they sent for it to a point some 6 weeks and 4000 miles away. Despite the distance, there were "friends" there who could be depended upon to get it and ship it.

Voyages are short today—and this bank still has dependable "friends," not only in Russia where they once made iron fences, but all over the world. Some 16,000 banks, correspondents of The First National, are at the other end of a wire, ready to do the bidding of The First National's 77,000 customers.

It isn't likely that you will be wanting a Russian iron fence—but whatever service you need abroad will be performed just as usefully as in 1784—and much more swiftly.

DROP FIGHT FOR ANTI-KLAN PLANK IN G. O. P. CONVENTION

BACKERS ADMIT DEFEAT

Sentiment Against Barring the Hooded Order Is Overwhelming, Creager Says

Cleveland, June 9.—The fight to insert an anti-klan plank in the Republican platform was definitely dropped today.

R. B. Creager, national committeeman from Texas, who has led the battle to put the party on record in strongest terms against the hooded order admitted he was beaten. He will be on the Resolutions Committee that drafts the platform.

"I think the party is making a mistake in not coming out against the Klan" said Creager, "but the sentiment is too overwhelming against me and I know I am licked."

Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, where the Klan recently nominated a governor in the Republican primaries, said:

"The Klan is not a political issue, it's one of ethics. A political issue is settled by a vote; there is nothing to vote upon in connection with the Klan.

BONE DRY PLANK.

The platform will contain a "bone dry" plank, demanding rigid enforcement of the prohibition law, it became known after Charles H. Warren, slated for the chairmanship of the Platform Committee, had conferred with other party leaders.

Warren allowed to his associates a draft of the prohibition plank, which was written by Senator Borah. It points out that the Eighteenth Amendment has been ratified by the people and that the National act is the law of the land and for that reason the party should stand for its enforcement to the last degree.

It is understood this plank is acceptable to party leaders.

The Republican delegation from President Coolidge's home State arrived from Boston, determined to strip Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of the prominence he has held in the Republican National Conventions of the last thirty years.

Since 1900, with the exception of the year when his friend, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, caused the Bull Moose split, Lodge has been either temporary or permanent chairman of the National convention or chairman of its committee on resolutions.

The delegation is controlled completely by President Coolidge and William M. Butler, his campaign manager, who is also a Massachusetts delegate to the convention.

They are angry with Lodge for failing to sustain the President in his policies, notably his veto of the bonus.

PLAN TO PUNISH HIM.

A "campaign of punishment" has been instituted against Lodge and it is said to have had its inception among Coolidge's friends at Washington. At least, Lodge believes that to be the case.

The vanguard of delegates arrived to find Cleveland a cold, drizzling, cheerless convention city.

The old enthusiasm, the blare of bands, the buttonholing in lobbies, the fervor of contest and the buzz of wire pulling were absent.

A band marched out in a brave attempt to start a bit of excitement but the drenching rain drove it quickly to cover.

The Massachusetts delegation arrived in a body and tried to arouse some life, after separating to their Coolidge quarters and finding no one there broke up into small groups and departed.

ALL COOLIDGE'S WAY.

The convention has been ordered to the Coolidge liking. The delegates are ready to nominate him, choose a running mate and adopt a platform to suit him and go home.

It is possible the whole show will be wound up Thursday and that the delegates will be on their way home that night.

KLAN HEADS OPPOSE G. O. P. "ANTE" PLANK

Cleveland, June 9.—Active opposition to an Anti-Klan plank in the Republican platform by the Klan was forecast by the announcement that Imperial Wizard H. W. Evans, of Atlanta, would arrive here today for conference with leaders.

Prominent Klan men are quartered at two hotels and have had several informal conferences, but few persons outside the Klan, however, are aware of the presence of the Klansmen as they have made no display.

Outstanding Indiana Klan leaders are here keeping in touch with political leaders and hoping that they can prevent any Anti-Klan declaration which will embarrass them.

Senator Ernst Named

Cleveland, June 9.—Senator Richard Ernst of Kentucky, has been chosen as the chairman of the Committee on Rules of the convention, it was announced today by William M. Butler, pre-convention campaign manager for Coolidge.

The NEW ENGLAND BANDWAGON

By Jo Swerling

Cleveland, June 9.—At this very early stage of the proceedings the convention is already a huge success for former State Treasurer Charles L. Burrill.

The minute Mr. Burrill got the key to his room at the Hollenden Hotel, he yelled, "Turks—" and then, reversing the historical precedent, instead of leaping out of a bath, he leaped in.

For four hours he luxuriated in the tub, splashing about with the abandon of a sea lion.

Just before Burrill left Boston for Cleveland he had been summoned to court in an action instituted by a party who is joint tenant with him in the premises occupied by Mr. Burrill on Beacon Hill.

There is only one bathtub in the house, and the court order was to the effect that the bath was to be used the latter half of each week by the other tenant.

On the train Burrill hogged the shower, coming out only for dinner, and when he left the hotel he lost no time in getting into his tub.

No matter who's nominated for Vice-President, Burrill got what he came out for—a bath. And, as far as he's concerned, all's right with the world.

Not so with some others. Three hours after the Massachusetts pilgrims, chaperoned by Frank H. Foss, and Jesse B. Baxter, filed into the Hollenden Hotel, a score or more were standing forlornly about in the lobby, waiting for maids to move out of the rooms reserved for them. At this particular crisis, a Cleveland booster was heard to announce, in stentorian accents:

"This town has got seventy-six hotels with more than 5,000 rooms in the downtown section. We can take care of any convention."

Mr. Baxter's room was occupied when he arrived. "Throw the party out," he suggested to the hotel clerk, and this was done. Later Mr. Baxter discovered that he had taken the room occupied until his arrival by Mrs. Leonard Wood.

The Massachusetts special was renamed within half an hour after it left the North Station. It was dubbed Honeymoon Special, because Charlie Innes was there with his bride, recently acquired.

Ernie Goulston, the Boston silverslinging expert, sneaked into the train kitchen, borrowed a handful of ice from the cook, and found it at the lines as they went through his car.

There was a buoyant, carefree atmosphere on the special train. This may have been due to refreshments served free by the train management, however, or perhaps it was due to the absence of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, who in the past has lent a regal dignity to convention delegations.

Chairman Frank H. Foss, Charlie Hatfield and George J. Barker were discussing the effect of women on politics, and Mr. Foss maintained they were an excellent influence.

"In the old days," said Mr. Foss, "political headquarters would assail the olfactory senses with a mixture of tobacco smoke, liquor and other kindred fragrances. With the ladies taking part in the party deliberations, there is today an overtone of talc, flowers and other delightful smells."

"The new odor of things," Mr. Barker solemnly stated.

For hours George Rich, secretary of the Boston Stock Exchange and president of the Republican Club of Massachusetts, sat by himself on the train reading a massive tome.

It was a history of the Fascist movement in Italy. Rich, after the election is going to Rome for six months to write the life story of Mussolini, dictator of Italy.

Thirty sets of golf clubs were lugged to the Hollenden by the Massachusetts delegation. And all day it rained.

"Nevertheless," remarked State Treasurer Frederick W. Cook, "We ought to have plenty of time to play golf during the week."

The prettiest girls at the convention—39—count 'em—39—are from Calvin Coolidge's home town in Plymouth, Vt., members of the Home Town Coolidge Club of Plymouth. Edward J. Blanchard is president; Clarence L. Keith, vice-president; Mrs. Laura Johnson, treasurer, and Dick P. Brown, secretary.

The thirty pulchritudinous neighbors of Cal, togged up to kill with pretty gray sashes emblazoned with their legend, are distributing around the various convention headquarters, and are making a tremendous hit.

Incidentally the pretty ones are soliciting membership in the club at $1 per, and they're getting a barrel of dollars.

Concerning the actual convention business itself, leaders of the delegation, including Foss and Governor Cox, decline to go beyond the vaguest of generalities. The consensus seems to be that "Well, we're here because we're here."

Governor Cox, by far the best-dressed man on the special train, and leader of the delegation, proved his leadership by leading the rush to the dining car, and was eating his last claim when the second party arrived.

A distressing occurrence almost ruined the trip for Clarence A. Barnes, Boston lawyer, who lost his grip somewhere enroute to the depot.

"There were two of my best suits in that grip," moaned Barnes. "But I don't mind losing them so much. There were four of my best silk shirts, but I could stand the loss of them. There was a set of valuable military brushes in the grip, but I could pass that up."

"What in the world did you have in the grip that causes you such agony of spirit?" Eben S. Draper demanded.

The perturbed Mr. Barnes whispered something in Mr. Draper's ear and an expression of great compassion passed over the expressive face of Mr. Draper, who forthwith said:

"Come with me."

They departed, and an hour later Barnes returned to his seat in good spirits.

Somebody suggested that George J. Barker of Waltham would be an ideal man to frame the various Republican planks. Barker is known as "The Lumber King of Massachusetts."

In the absence of Senator Lodge the only man in the Massachusetts delegation who boasted a beard was Walter O. Luscombe of Buzzards Bay.

ment of soldiers' bonus; for consideration of the Howell-Barkley bill for the settlement of disputes between carriers and employes; for amendment of the rate making section of the transportation act; looking toward the reduction of "extortionate railroad rates," and for reclamation relief legislation extending the time of payment to farmers on government reclamation projects.

It is further declared that the convention system of nominating Presidential and Vice-Presidential candidates "has failed," and Senate and House members should be urged to "initiate and support such constitutional amendment and legislation as may be necessary to provide for direct nomination and election by the people of the United States of candidates for President and Vice-President."

The convention will be asked by the insurgents to extend its congratulations to 31 Republican senators and 121 Republican representatives "for display of courage and independence in 'voting for the tax bill enacted into law by both houses of Congress and signed by the President, as a substitute for the Mellon plan."

In the connection request is made for legislation to give "full and complete publicity on tax returns," and for a "pledge to the American people that neither the Mellon plan nor any other tax bill providing for substantial reductions in annual taxes for multimillionaires and profiteering corporations shall receive the support of the Republican party in any future session of the Congress."

Another plank provides that neither the Republican National committee nor the Republican Congressional nor Senatorial campaign committee in the presidential and congressional campaigns for 1924 "shall accept any contributions in any amount whatsoever, from any individual, or from any individual connected in any way with any corporation, subject to prosecution as a trust or monopoly or other illegal combination or having any interest in oil, coal, timber or other natural resources found on the public domain."

'Bugs' Does a Little Keynoting Himself

By "BUGS" BAER

Cleveland, June 9.—The Republican convention is like the door on a speakeasy, open and shut.

Although there will be plenty of keynoting, this political rodeo is like tobacco in the shed. Cut and dried.

All they've got to do is to pick out Coolidge's mate. This does not mean that the party leaders want Cal to commit justifiable bigamy. In this case, it is a political mate.

Cal already has a mate who has promised to stick by him for better or worse. A political mate only sticks by you for better.

The Republican party has to find a vice-president for Cal. They've got to find a man whose name is easy to spell and easy to forget. A man who is handy at organizing rubber stamps and who can address a meeting of Mugwump Boy Scouts on the White House lawn while Cal is in the throne room playing Mah Jong with his inlaid ivory veto set.

Every effort is being made to make this meeting as short and as harmonious as a mouth organ.

The keynote squawk will probably be tossed off by Representative Burton of Ohio.

However, no keynote speech means much. It is a combination of wasted energy and balony, weather forecasts and optimism, gymnastics and rebuttals. It wastes its sweetness on the delegated air. And while it is delivered it is never collected.

The keynote speech sounds important but its echoes are noncommittal. It goes something like this:

"Gentlemen and those present. We are faced with a crisis in our nation's history. I have just dined in a Cleveland hotel and they charged me three dollars for frogs' legs. I admit that frogs' legs are clean, wholesome food. The frog leads an athletic life. He lives an outdoor life. Therefore in summing up my final analysis, I find that the Man of Destiny is none other than Calvin Coolidge."

A roar of approval for the frogs' legs and Calvin Coolidge reverberates through the lobbies and rumbles through the earpieces. Cal is nominated and there is nothing to do but to wait for November and train your microscopes on the overwhelming majority.

But they still have to pick a vice-president, the man who will be the office boy to the man of destiny. They put all the names in the hat and the first one picked out loses. The team is complete. America is safe for another four years provided that the Democrats don't win by a careful miscount.

That's all there is to a convention. And if you think they are important, how it is that the campfire girls hold one every year and the imported rug experts meet twice a month?

COOLIDGE TO CONFER WITH SENATOR BORAH

Washington, June 9.—President Coolidge will confer during the day with Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, according to an announcement from the White House. The purpose of the conference was not revealed.

Senator Borah later revealed that no formal tender or proposal had been mad's to him to run for Vice President.

"I have made it plain though," he said, "that I don't want the job. As to running it down definitely, I couldn't do that unless it was tendered to me—and that hasn't been done."

KEEP COOL AND KEEP COOLIDGE IS THE SLOGAN

Vermont Delegates to Stage Demonstration in Brown Farm Smocks

Cleveland, June 9 (A.P.)—Dressed in brown smocks, such as Calvin Coolidge wore on the farm when a boy going to school, members of the Vermont delegation—some of them neighbors and school friends of the President—have arranged to stage a demonstration in the Republican National convention Thursday immediately following the nomination of Coolidge.

The Vermont delegates will parade the convention hall, carrying canes made of wood cut on the Coolidge farm cow pasture near Plymouth, Vermont and wearing the brown smocks, with the words "Coolidge Home Town Club," painted on the back in large letters.

Twelve hundred of the canes were brought to Cleveland today by the Vermont delegates. They were cut by H. T. Brown, of Plymouth, who owns the farm adjoining the Coolidge farm, and who went to school with the President.

DELEGATES' SONG.

"Keep Cool and Keep Coolidge," sung to a rollicking tune, will be the song of the delegates from the President's home State. They hope to make it the official song of the convention, and plan to introduce it to all of the various State delegations and in all of the hotel lobbies tomorrow.

The refrain to the song is:

To Keep Cool and Keep Coolidge" is the slogan of today.
"Keep Cool and Keep Coolidge" for the good old U. S. A.
A lot of politicians cannot do a thing but knock,
But Calvin is a man of action and not talk.
So just "Keep Cool and Keep Coolidge" in the White House four years more.
We have a chance to do it in this year of twenty-four,
He's been tried, he's never wanting; he is giving of his best;
"Keep Cool and Keep Coolidge" is our country's mighty test.

PRINTED ON FANS.

The Coolidge campaign song has been printed on thousands of fans which will be distributed to the delegates and spectators. The fans can be folded in such a manner as to make them small megaphones.

Ten stalwart delegates from Plymouth, the President's home town, have formed a glee club which will officially introduce the song to the convention, before the starting of the parade of smocked delegates.

The Vermont delegates also brought a gavel, made of wood from the Coolidge farm, which will be presented to Colonel John T. Adams with which to call the convention to order Tuesday morning.

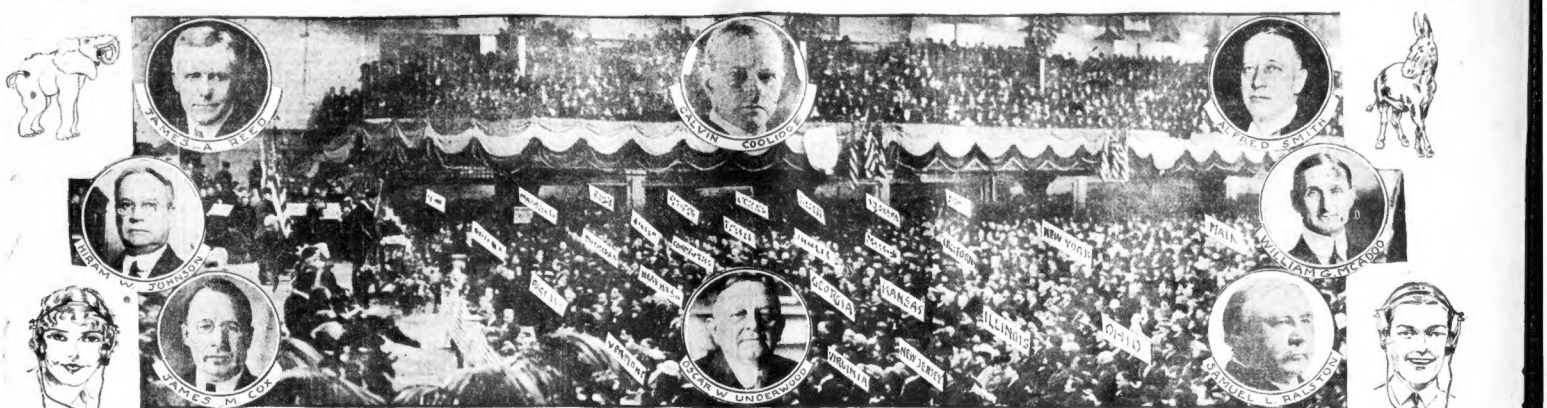
Attend The National Conventions



Hear The Speeches-Listen To The Applause

Right in your own home you can follow the Republican and Democratic National Conventions in Cleveland and New York if you have a radio set.

Through the loud speaker or the ear phones will come the voices of the candidates and the applause of the crowds. The dealers below can fulfill your radio needs.

AIR PLANS FOR CONVENTION COMPLETED

Plans are now complete for the joint broadcasting by WNAC and WTAT of the Republican convention at Cleveland, which opens tomorrow.

This broadcast will be on 278 meters.

It will come direct from the convention hall by American Telephone Company lines.

Because of the nature of the affair, the program has to be somewhat sketchy, and various items on the WNAC program may have to be cancelled. It was believed to be certain, however, that the Tuesday morning talks of Martha Lee and Jean Sargent would be given.

As nearly as can be forecast, the convention will proceed in the following order:

OPENS TOMORROW.

Tuesday, 10 a. m.—Convention called to order by Chairman Adams. The permanent chairman will follow with a half-hour speech. This will be followed by the keynote speech by Representative Burton. The meeting will adjourn at about 2 p. m.

Wednesday, opening at 10 a. m., the permanent organization will begin. The report of the rules committee will be heard and adopted. Following this will be the reading of the platform as outlined by the committee on resolutions.

NOMINATE THURSDAY.

This is expected to be the storm centre of the convention as the Wisconsin delegates will probably offer a different platform.

Thursday will probably see three sessions, morning, afternoon and night. At the opening of the morning session, President Burton of the University of Michigan will present the name of Calvin Coolidge for nomination for President of the United States.

The nomination of a Vice-President will follow.

The convention will close with a single session on Friday.

OPTOMETRISTS TO HEAR CONVENTION

The broadcast of the Republican Convention at Cleveland will be picked up for the State Society of Optometrists at their annual meeting and banquet Wednesday at the Boston City Club. The Federal Radio Corporation will install a receiving set and several loud speakers in the room in which the banquet is to be held. An attempt will also be made to pick up WDAF, in Kansas City, where Dr. George S. Houghton, of Boston, who is attending the National Convention of Optometrists, will speak on "Greater Care of Vision."

Radio Receiving Conditions Tonight

Radio receiving conditions will be good from stations broadcasting from the eastern part of the country.

The West, North Middle West and Southwest will not be good owing to the difference in barometric pressure in these sections.

Last Night on Air

BY THE LISENER

Probably more people attended church "via Radio" last night, than at any other time in the history of local broadcasting. WDBR, the new Tremont Temple station, was on and WNAC broadcast the Park Street Church service. Both stations came in with excellent volume with in two or three degrees of each other.

I visited the new Tremont Temple station last week and engineers told me it was a duplicate of the WNAC equipment. In fact, by listening to Dr. Massee's voice last night, and shifting my memory a few months back, I could never know but what his voice was coming from WNAC as in days of yore. In consideration of the highly successful inauguration of this new station yesterday, there seems little doubt but what WDBR will make a name for itself.

In listening to the Capitol Theatre program through WJAR, I encountered several "canary whistles" from my neighbors' sets. This is proof of an interesting condition. It so happened last evening that all local programs consisted of church services. The only instrumental and otherwise popular program to be had with any worth while volume, was that from WJAR. Now on Sunday nights when WNAC and WTAT have local popular programs there is hardly any whistling in the neighborhood.

This proves that fans are listening to the local stations and are not straining their tubes to get WJAR or other stations which are not as loud as the locals. But last night the Paderites were not on, and WNAC signed off after the Park Street Church service was over.

Consequently there was a great scramble to pick up a popular program, hence the congested condition on WJAR'S wave. This would indicate that popular programs are greatly in favor, even on Sunday.

WBZ came on shortly with a whooping good program of music from the Estey Organ studio. This program evidently directed some of the fans in my neighborhood, from WJAR's program, because the whistling subsided to a great extent. Among the numbers on this program was a violin solo, "Rose Softly Blooming," which was played by Anna Elekhorn, and accompanied by the Estey organ. This came through beautifully, as also did the harp solos by Marion Harlow.

The sweetest and most beautiful number I could find on anything that came through last night, was a two piano solo "Kiss Me Again." It was sung by one of the Capitol Theatre artists, through WJAR. She was accompanied by the Capitol Theatre orchestra, and her voice truly seemed a part of it.

SINGLE HOLE FOR NEW CONDENSER

A new condenser, the feature of which is a single-hole mounting, has just appeared on the market under the name "Nol-Loss." A bushing around the shaft holds the condenser in place on the panel, and this makes it easy to tip the condenser at any angle desired without further drilling.

In tests made at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, the .00025 mfd. size was found to have a maximum capacity of .000264 and minimum of .00023. The .0005 size had a maximum of .000484 and minimum of .00027. The largest size at 200 meters was found to have a resistence of one ohm in a series resonant circuit with a standard laboratory condenser. The latter condenser also measured one ohm.

LOEB IS REPORTED READY TO TURN STATE'S EVIDENCE

WILL TAKE LONG TERM IN 'PEN' TO ESCAPE GALLOWS

such testimony from Loeb, his partner, pal and left-hand, at Loeb insisted that life, himself, was sane now and at all times it should be a devious task to convince a jury that this notorious outrage was conceived and committed by one rational being and one lunatic or maniac.

For the purpose of showing that the youths are sane, the state's attorney has carefully arranged the notes made by each of the accused pair when the confession of the other was read to him. This will serve, the State pointed out, as a valuable weapon against the predicted move of the defense to have the confessions thrown out.

The notes made by Leopold and Loeb when the confessions were read are in the handwritings of the boys and in their denials of each one's accusation that the other did the actual killing, they have demonstrated, according to Crowe, one-half of the Illinois code's requirement for legal sanity and culpability in an accused person.

The State holds that a person is legally sane if he can distinguish between right and wrong, and if he has the power to resist committing a crime.

Heretofore, the public, and unconsciously even the authorities, have linked the two boys as they have their two names—Leopold and Loeb, Loeb and Leopold—without stopping in the unceasing pressure of new developments hourly to speculate on what might eventuate if the two are separated.

Two souls with but a single interest, a mutual peril, the same attorneys, yes; but what if that union were sundered?

NO HONOR AMONG SLAYERS.

Loeb, sitting in his cell apart from the "stimulus" of the dominant Leopold, has had wretched, writhing hours in which to think it over, "on the inside looking out." His gravely ill father, his tortured mother, his family friends and blood kin, have each given him sleepless, intensive thought.

And their thought has been for "Dick," their "Dick," not for Leopold, toward whom they have in their hearts a hot hatred, for they undeniably charge Leopold, as does "Dick" himself, with having dragged, if not driven, the less vicious Loeb into his crimes and into his predicament.

"Honor among thieves" has never been stretched by that weird ethical philosophy of even social anarchists into an unwritten law of "honor among murderers," unless they were professional murderers of the gun man, or thug or bandit type.

In the last ditch life is sweet. Even if it is to be a life in a cell among caged outcasts for the handsome, diffident youth who will still inherit millions if he survives and who a few days ago was a pampered, silk-lined scion of a mighty clan and the adored gallant of rich, pretty, well-bred girls.

The best that the defenders of "Dick" Loeb may expect if he battles to the extreme possibilities of any form of legal resistance, is a life term in a madhouse, probably a penitentiary for criminal insane. Would it not be less horrible, they reason, to have him confined for the same endless term in a penitentiary with sane felons?

While there is life, even though the full tenure of it has been sentenced off by law, there is hope. Years afterward, if Loeb is confined to an asylum, a jury of experts may find and swear that he has recovered and may safely be freed.

HOPE FOR PARDON.

By that time a new generation of prosecutors, executives and "the public" will be in power. The bay of indignation will have ceased to echo. The Loebs will still be rich and influential.

Could not the same be done if he were in a penitentiary? Some future Governor might pardon this greying, remorseful man, who, in the distant past, had shown his contrition by appearing for the State, who had tried to undo in a small measure a great wrong he had perpetrated when, according to sworn evidence endorsed by the State which in 1911 made him its own witness, he testified that he had been putty in the clutch of a masterful, monstrous arch-criminal?

CONFER TODAY.

State's Attorney Crowe was to confer today with the man to whom the proposition was conveyed. He will, undoubtedly, be reluctant to consider it.

The law, and justly enough, holds them equally and jointly guilty. Which one did the actual, manual killing is a matter of utter except as to its casting a shadow on the veracity of them both.

The mere admission by Loeb that he bought a chisel with which he knew Leopold was going to commit a felony (not even murder), with which chisel and in the act of a felony (not necessarily premeditated murder) a human life was taken, is legal ground for sentencing Loeb to the gallows.

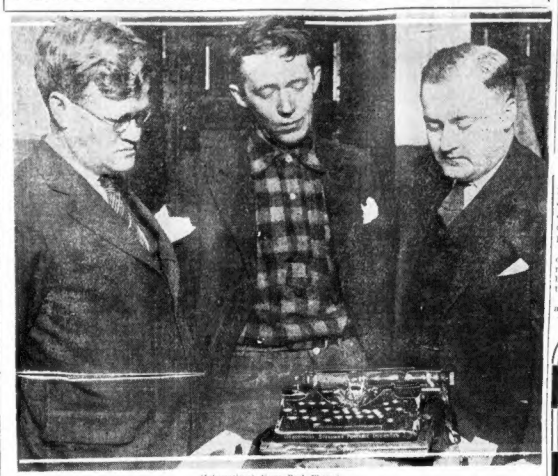
Crowe is conversant as an official with the truth that he is charged with prosecuting to the fullest legal extent every individual indicted for a crime, and he knows as a citizen that Chicago, Illinois, perhaps the world, is demanding society's full pound of flesh from each of the confessed killers for this unique atrocity which has shocked all civilized humanity.

He is conscious, moreover, of the amazing airtight circumstantial case against each of the defendants which all lawyers agree will be a Gibraltar against any defense, confessions or none. Rarely in the history of such affairs has such a consecutive, dovetailing, doubt-proof structure of evidence been pieced together.

But he will confess that "you never can tell what a jury will do." That it is hard to make a jury hang a man who has not actually killed, and that a hiatus there may result in only prison sentences for both.

With Loeb turning against Leopold and telling everything, the gamble is practically eliminated as against Leopold, and Loeb himself will agree to a sentence which, possibly, is the worst he will get if he fights.

ASKED RANSOM ON THIS MACHINE



(International News Reel Photo.)

TYPEWRITER ON WHICH THE FRANKS LETTER WAS WRITTEN

The picture shows the portable Underwood typewriter on which the ransom letter was written to Jacob Franks, father of Robert Franks. The letter was received after the boy was dead. The typewriter was found in the Jackson Park Lagoon, Chicago, almost at the spot where Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold, Jr., confessed kidnapers and slayers, had stated it would be found. The missing typewriter has been most sought after of all the evidence and the state's attorneys office is certain completes the chain of evidence in one of the weirdest murder mysteries of all time. Photo shows, left to right, with the typewriter, Robert Crowe, state's attorney; Frank Blair, professional diver, who found the machine, and James P. Savage, assistant state's attorney.

POLICE GUARD ON HOMES OF SLAYERS

Precautions Taken After Several Death Threats Are Received by Families

Chicago, June 9.—Hearing of supplementary evidence by the Grand Jury which indicted Nathan Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb for the murder of thirteen-year-old Robert Franks was to begin today.

Relatives and friends who were in contact with the boys for several months preceding the crime were to be called in to testify as to their actions.

Police guards have been thrown around the homes of the slayers, following threats of death to the parents.

The threats have been communicated by both telephone and mail. At first they were believed to be only the work of harmless cranks.

Today, however, the police and the Leopold and Loeb families apparently decided that no chances should be taken.

They would not say just what the threats were, but admitted they are seriously uneasy over the matter of protection for the two families.

Steps were also taken by Mr. Loeb to have a guard placed about his magnificent country place in Charlevoix, Michigan. This step of precaution was taken following telephone orders to Charlevoix, presumably from Mr. Loeb, that all packages received there must be opened outside of the house.

G. O. P.

MORE EVIDENCE.

Meantime, State's Attorney Crowe was adding to the chain of evidence which, in the main essentials, had been nearly completed with the finding of the typewriter Saturday on which the ransom note was written, discovery of the flashlight which guided the killers to the culvert grave of young Franks, and to time tables from which they selected a train from which Jacob Franks was to throw the $10,000 ransom.

Additional bits of evidence developed Sunday, although not directly essential, were, nevertheless, of great importance as being corroborative of the details of the confessions. One was the suitcase containing books which young Loeb left in the room assigned to him at the Morrison Hotel, where he went to establish a temporary stopping place prior to the kidnaping.

REPORT ODD DEATH TO MEDICAL EXAMINER

The Somerville police and the doctors at the Psychopathic Hospital are puzzled over the death of Charles Bell, of No. 23 Harrison street, Somerville, who was taken to the hospital today and died shortly after his arrival.

The police and hospital officials say that the man, who was very sick, showed no signs of having been injured, nor had he been drinking. Although foul play is not suspected, the medical examiner was notified.

LEOPOLD WAS MARVEL OF PATIENCE IN BIRD HUNT

Chicago, June 9.—Following is the third installment of the treatise Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., wrote on the life and habits of the Kirtland's Warbler, after an intensive and painstaking study of that rare feathered songster in its breeding haunts in Northern Michigan.

It was printed in the January issue of "The Auk," published by ornithologists, and at young Leopold's expense reprinted in pamphlet form for distribution among his friends.

Throughout the narrative is evidenced the same adherence to minuteness of detail and deliberate, coldly calculating stalking of the timid creature that marked his alleged plotting of young Franks' murder.

THE KIRTLAND'S WARBLER IN ITS SUMMER HOME
By N. F. LEOPOLD, JR.

June 19 we determined to spend the morning making a study of the habits of the birds at the nest. Consequently we started out about 9:30 a. m. and arrived at the site of the nest at 9:45. We divided into two parties, each taking a turn at observing the nest and taking notes of the proceedings.

Mr. Watson and the writer were to have the first turn. Consequently, we approached the nest from the southeast and concealed ourselves on the ground at a distance of four or five feet from the nest. I quote from our notes, taken at the time:

YOUNG BIRDS SILENT

Arrived at the nest at 9:46 a. m. After difficulty in discovering nest. Finished male from its side. He flew about four feet to a small palmetto, eyed us suspiciously for a moment, then burst into song.

Moved closer to nest, with bug in his mouth, watching us as I singing. Female sat on bush at distance of fifteen feet, chirping and wagging her tail. Male seemed at ease; the female not at all. Male sang:

Chip, chip—chip, chip, chip—
—chip—chip, wheeoo
crescendo
accelerando.

9:50—Male moved nearer nest singing six times a minute. Head always raised in song. Movements of throat very noticeable. Female flew nearer into same clump. Food held tenaciously in mouth of male for fifteen minutes during song.

9:57—Male fed young. The young birds have not made a noise.

10:00—Male hopped from nest, looked about an instant and commenced singing.

10:09—Male left clump in search of food and flew to neighboring tree at distance of thirty feet where he sang.

10:13—Male reentered clump with food, singing. Approached nest as before and fed.

10:14—Seems much less shy. This time stayed only forty-five seconds before reappearing, having disposed of his food. As before remained in clump singing for several minutes before departing in search of food. Female chirping much more softly and much less frequently. Seems to have become accustomed to our presence. Female wags her tail much more frequently than male.

NOT SUSPICIOUS

10:24—Male approached within two feet. Not at all suspicious, singing. Has two alarm notes, one slightly softer than the other. Female approached within a foot of the nest and then withdrew, wagging tail continually. Also circles around, watching us very intently.

10:29—Female within six inches of nest, with food.

10:32—Male in bush to right of us, singing. Female keeps coming within six inches of nest, withdrawing each time. She wags her tail much more than male.

10:38—Male enters nest, immediately leaves. Female also enters nest, after watching male. Also leaves immediately.

10:41—Female enters nest. She has been within six inches of the nest twenty-eight times before entering for the first time.

(Relieved by Messrs. Steele and Stein.)

10:50—Female just approaching nest. Very nervous. Tail wagging continuously.

SIX TRIALS

10:55—Male approaching as female nears nest with food. Male has food, too. He is much less nervous and feeds young, then leaves while female is still inspecting surroundings.

10:57—Male still singing on stump nearby.

11—Female still carrying food. Has approached nest twice, but not fed young yet.

11:03—Female still hopping about. Six trials so far and has not fed young yet. Seems to have a very definite route by which to approach the nest.

11:04—As male approaches, female drops into the nest to feed, but comes out three times during the process to look about.

11:07—Female within four feet of us for inspection, male nearby singing. Exchange positions. Female off for food. Male sings as he approaches nest with food.

11:09—Female returns. No food, however. Male feeds. No elaborate performance, goes directly about his business and at 11:11—leaves nest after feeding.

FLIES OVER HEADS

11:14—Male singing about two feet directly above the nest. Sings eight times a minute.

11:15—Male much interested. Female scared by noise occasioned by changing film in camera. Male approaches boldly within three feet and sings, while female hops about nervously.

11:17—Female left and returned with food. Male singing. Female resumes same tactics as to feed.

11:20—Accidentally snapped a twig and female left. Male not even disturbed. Food looks to be a long black worm, shiny like a centipede.

11:26—Male singing loudly in back of us, then approaches directly over our heads. Apparently oblivious to us.

11:27—Female has not returned.

11:30—Length of song, one and a half to two seconds. Still singing 24 times a minute.

Couple Weep at Bank Theft Hearing

ARRAIGNED IN THEFT OF BOND COUPONS

MR. AND MRS. THORNTON LEAVING COURT

Mrs. Thornton is charged with stealing $27,000 worth of Liberty bond coupons while she was employed at the National Shawmut Bank. Her husband is held as an accessory. He was arrested while attempting to cash two of them. New Haven friends came to the rescue of the wife in pity for her six-months-old baby and supplied her bail.

SHAWMUT BANK LOST $27,000

Thorntons, Former Trusted Clerks, Held in Larceny of Liberty Bond Coupons

John F. Thornton, former West Point man and army major, and his wife, Mrs. Eleanor Elizabeth Thornton, wept in each other's arms today during arraignment on charges in connection with the theft of $27,000 from the National Shawmut Bank.

Both are former employes of the bank. They now live in New Haven. Mrs. Thornton is charged with stealing $27,000 in Liberty Bond coupons. Her husband is charged with receiving the stolen coupons.

In municipal court today a continuance was granted to June 11. Mrs. Thornton was released in $5,000 bail and the former major in $10,000.

After Mrs. Thornton had been released and while arrangements were being made for his bond, she passed the prisoner's cage, threw her arms around him and sobbed. Tears flowed from his eyes. For several minutes they clung to each other before regaining their composure.

According to the charges, the bonds were stolen in September, 1922. Mrs. Thornton—formerly Miss Nellie Gay of Woburn—worked with Thornton in the bank.

They were married last June. In Woburn, Nellie Gay's marriage was spoken of as being one of wealth. Her husband was a "wealthy young man" and took her to California on a honeymoon; the neighbors too each other.

Thornton was arrested while attempting to cash two coupons from Liberty Bonds of large denomination.

BAILED BY FRIENDS.

New Haven friends of Mrs. Eleanor Elizabeth Thornton furnished bail to obtain the release of herself and her six-months-old baby.

Until May, 1923, Mrs Thornton was a trusted employe of the Shawmut bank. She had access to all the vaults and handled millions in securities, each day.

When she resigned to be married the bank and her fellow-workers gave her a send-off. Shortly after she became Mrs. Thornton the bank missed the Liberty Bond coupons. Detectives were employed and a thorough investigation was conducted but suspicion was not directed toward the young bride.

A careful watch was kept at all the Boston banks, for anyone trying to redeem the stolen coupons. When Thornton, the husband, walked into the Shawmut bank and presented $4,800 worth of the hypothecated securities for redemption the bank summoned the police and the young man was placed under arrest. A few hours later his wife was arrested in New Haven.

CLAIMS MISTAKE.

When Mrs. Thornton was brought to Boston by police inspectors, she insisted there was a mistake and that she could clear up the matter to the satisfaction of the bank.

"My husband is a struggling author and this will be terrible for him," she told the authorities.

SLAYER BURNS OILED BODY OF WOMAN

Lowell, June 9.—The police today raided a house on Brookings street, this city, in a vain attempt to arrest Stanley Klepacz, sought in connection with the murder of Mrs. Catherine Kruczek in Manchester, N. H.

Klepacz, whose wife lives at No. 103 High street Lowell, was thought to be in the Brookings street house, but was not found. The police are continuing a search of the Polish quarters.

Mrs. Kruczek was murdered by being beaten to death, after which her body was saturated with kerosene and set afire. The murderer was said to have been her sweetheart.

The police of Lawrence are also asked to search for Klepacz, who it was learned made his home there five years ago at No. 11 Tremont street. A police detail early today began a search of the Plains section of that city, in which the man is believed to have friends.

The man, according to the police, had been living with Mrs. Kruczek as her husband for several weeks.

The pair lived in a dingy apartment at No. 18 Manhattan landing. Residents of the apartment house smelled smoke and made an investigation. They found the body of the woman, her clothing ablaze, lying on the floor of the living room of her suite. The fire was extinguished before the body was badly burned.

FORECLOSE $24,500,000 CHEMICAL MORTGAGE

New York, June 9.—Foreclosure of the trust mortgage of the Virginia Carolina Chemical Company, covering the $24,500,000 7 per cent. bond issue, was ordered today by Federal Judge Runyon of New Jersey after default of the June interest payment.

The court ordered the receivership extended over assets covered by the first mortgage bonds and directed consolidation of the foreclosure action with the receivership suit brought by creditors. Waldron M. Wood, counsel for the Union Trust Company of New York, representing the first mortgage bondholders, told Judge Runyon that $875,500 of interest on bonds, due June 1, had been passed.

ILLNESS POSTPONES BARING POISON CASE

White Plains, N. Y., June 9.—Trial of Clarence O. Baring, indicted on charges by his wife, Mrs. Sarah Baring, that he had attempted to poison her, was indefinitely postponed today by County Judge Bleakley because of the illness of Charles E. Lone, counsel for Baring. The trial had been set for today.

FOUR BRAVES FIELD GAMBLERS ARE FINED

Charged with gambling at the St. Louis-Boston baseball game last Saturday, when they were said to have bet from $50 to $100 each on the outcome of the game, Samuel Goodman, Harry Gordon, Michael Silva and Michael Connella, pleaded guilty in Brighton District Court and were fined $10 each.

Collision at Sea

New York, June 9.—The steamer Cananova was in collision with the schooner Vincent A. White of Parrsboro, N. S., off the Delaware coast, officers of the steamer reported on arrival today. Part of the rail, ports and bulwarks amidship on the port side of the steamer were smashed. The schooner had her bowsprit carried away and lost headgear. She is bound from Lunenburg, N. S., for Norfolk.

WARE OPENS NEW SHIPPING AGENCY

A new steamship agency, to be known as the Ware Shipping Company, with headquarters at No. 111 Summer street, has been established in Boston by Charles E. Ware, Jr., former president of the Nawsco Lines.

The Ware Shipping Company will act as agents for the Munson-McCormick Line, which will provide regular sailings from Boston on the basis of twice a month. Their first sailing to be announced is the S. S. Felix W. Taussig from the Army Base Pier, Tuesday, July 1.

WOMAN FINED $15 IN SEVENTH AUTO CASE

Mrs. Helen Eldridge of No. 1067 Commonwealth avenue, Newton, has had seven charges of auto law violations against her during the past four years.

Today in Brighton District Court she pleaded guilty to speeding on June 1. The court listened to her tale of hurrying to reach the bedside of an injured friend, and fined the woman $15.

STUDENTS BACKING ATWOOD

Vote 70 to 15 in Opposition to "Prominent Alumni" Opposing Clark President

Worcester, June 9.—The student body of Clark University at a meeting held at noon today, adopted resolutions by a vote of 70 to 15 expressing confidence in President Wallace W. Atwood.

The resolutions in part set forth:

"The statement signed by 'prominent alumni' of the University of the Eastern States to the effect that the present administration has been unable to maintain the confidence of the students at Clark University, is without foundation in truth.

"The undergraduate body of Clark University have the fullest confidence in President Wallace W. Atwood, his administration and the policies governing its actions."

The resolutions further itemized the various charges which have been accomplished by the present administration for the good of the university.

DEAN LEWIS HEADS AMHERST "AGGIES"

Amherst, June 9 (I.N.S.).—Professor Edward M. Lewis, dean of the Massachusetts Agricultural College was today appointed acting president of the institution at the annual meeting of the trustees, Professor Lewis is head of the language and history departments. In his farewell address, the retiring president, Kenton L. Butterfield, who has been in conflict with the State policy regarding college control, advocated return of full control to the trustees.

Prof. Lewis.

Diplomas were presented to ninety-six young men and women.

AGED SLAYER IN LOVE DRAMA GETS 10 YEARS

Newark, N. J., June 9.—Martin Wright, seventy, was given a ten to twenty year's State Prison sentence by Judge Porter today for the murder on March 31 of his married daughter's sweetheart, Edward Hallock. Wright, crippled by rheumatism and using crutches, claimed that he had lost control of himself and shot Hallock because he thought the man was getting too much attention from Mrs. Wright and the married daughter. The shooting took place in Wright's home, where Hallock had spent the night. The daughter, Mrs. Mina Egbert, had been separated from her husband.

AUSTRIAN STATION OPENS ON JULY 1

A radio broadcasting station will be installed in Vienia, Austria, on July 1 on a permanent basis, according to reports to the Department of Commerce. While experiments in broadcasting have been conducted in Austria before, this is the first time broadcasting will be attempted on a permanent basis.

The tax for a radio set will be ten gold crowns. To cover the expenses of the broadcasting station every owner of a radio set will have to pay around fifty gold crowns a year. The report states that radio is becoming more and more popular in Austria.

CUBAN LIQUOR FOUND IN LYNN GARAGE

LYNN MAYOR AND SEIZED LIQUOR

Here is some of the $27,000 worth of Bacardi rum and Peralta cognac seized on three trucks in Lynn, two of which were found in the public garage of Mayor McPheters on Broad street. The other truck was found just after being loaded at Stone's wharf and led to the search that ended in the garage. Insert Mayor Harland A. McPheters, now at the Cleveland Convention.

While Mayor Harland A. McPheters of Lynn was on his way to Cleveland as a delegate to the Republican National Convention, police raided the McPheters Motor Company garage, operated by the Mayor, and seized two trucks laden with Cuban liquor, valued at $26,000.

Lynn police announced they would not apply for a warrant for the mayor.

They stated the liquor will be turned over to the Federal authorities, it having been examined by Owen P. McKenna, special agent for the United States Treasury and Customs Department.

The special agent gave the police orders to hold the trucks and refer all claimants to Assistant United States Attorney Carroll. One of the trucks was owned by Gordon E. Smith of Lynn, a second by Thomas F. Woodbury, Fellsway, Medford, and the third was registered in the name of Amelio J. La Comie, No. 25 Grafton street, Lowell.

Fred Brown of Lincoln avenue, Saugus, and George McDonald, No. 148 Liberty street, Lynn, arrested as one of the trucks, in Lynn court today pleaded not guilty to keeping liquor with intent to sell. The cases were continued to Friday and the men released in $300 each.

The raid followed the arrest of two men and the seizure of a truckload of liquor valued at $7000 at Stone's Wharf. Suspecting that more of the cargo had been landed, the police searched for six hours, until the trail led them to the McPheters garage. The garage management denied any knowledge of the presence of the liquor-laden trucks and the police are trying to determine the ownership of the liquor.

The liquor seized in the garage was consigned to persons in Medford and Lowell.

The garage is at No. 295 Broad street and is leased to Mayor McPheters by the Phegan estate.

EAST IS HIT BY EXPRESS RATE JUMP

Reductions in South and West Are Provided in Readjustment by Federal Board

Washington, June 9.—Express rates throughout the country were ordered readjusted today by the Interstate Commerce Commission, which authorized general increases in the Eastern zone approximating 8 per cent. and slight reductions in the West and South.

The decision was the result of a general investigation by the commission in which representatives of the railroad commissions participated. Wide differences in rates between the Southern, Middle Western, Rocky Mountain and Pacific Coast zones were ordered brought more nearly to a common level.

COST HIGHER IN EAST.

Fixing the new rates in 1922 the commission proceeded on the theory that the cost of transporting express in Western and Southern territory was more extensive than in the East.

The investigation, resulted in a change in that theory, it having been shown that the cost in the East is higher than in the West because of extensive free delivery systems and extra terminal service at Eastern points which is not given so generally in the West.

The present rates have the 1922 rates as their basis and include several horizontal increases which have been granted since.

The new Interstate Commerce Commission basic rate of 24 cents which was horizontally increased to 35 cents will be readjusted to about 31 cents. The mountain territory basic of 28 cents, increased to 38 cents since 1918, will be brought down to about 31 cents.

The West Coast rate of 24 cents, horizontally increased since 1918 to 32 cents, will be reduced to about 31 cents. The decision will be effective January 1, 1925.

territory is about 15 p. c. Under

EFFECTIVE JAN. 1, 1925.

In the Pacific States the basic rate of 24 cents which was horizontally increased to 35 cents will be readjusted to about 31 cents. The mountain territory basic of 28 cents, increased to 38 cents since 1918, will be brought down to about 31 cents.

The West Coast rate of 24 cents, horizontally increased since 1918 to 32 cents, will be reduced to about 31 cents. The decision will be effective January 1, 1925.

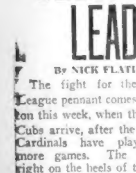
N. L. LEADERSHIP MAY BE DECIDED IN CUBS-BRAVES SERIES

CUBS NOW CLOSE TO LEAD

By NICK FLATLEY

The fight for the National League pennant comes in to Boston this week, when the Chicago Cubs arrive, after the St. Louis Cardinals have played three more games. The Cubs are right on the heels of the Giants, going steadily, and ready to pass up any time the champions falter, as they do every so often.

The ancient Grover Cleveland Alexander, like the other old and really great baseball pitchers, is having a while of a year, having hung up seven wins in a row, and is busily engaged in establishing a record that will keep the ambitious young chuckers jealous.



Alexander

Will Killifer's athletes aren't likely to have any picnic on the Wigwam pasture, however, if the Braves are quite likely to spill any team that comes along. Dave Bancroft has one of those ball clubs—the kind you never can figure.

BRAVES HAVE SHOWN NEW LIFE SINCE THEIR RETURN

The boys looked downright tired and weary in two games with the Reds last week, looked as if they never could win. But they came to life in the finale with the Hendrick club and knocked the apple all around the pasture. Then they staged a wild revolution the following day against the Cards, and gave a big flock of week-end fans a real treat.

Bancroft's team has a real punch, and plenty of ambition and fight, it hasn't had all the luck in the world, but misfortune hasn't fazed the performers a bit. They are still in a pretty good position for a ramble into the first division—just a couple of games away from the .500 mark.

Bill Killifer

The Cardinals do not look like much of a ball club. The team has evidently been worn ragged by almost getting into the fight for the past three or four seasons, and impetus and desire has lost its edge. Mister Rickey would seem to have the making of a team, but not much more. The Braves have big bulge in the matter of hustling, and that little quality should give them the long end of the argument.

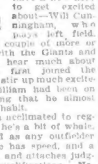
CUNNINGHAM IS PLAYING HIS WAY INTO HERO CLASS

The Tribe's pitching isn't anything like steady, but as the same can be said for most of the clubs in the league, the box weakness doesn't hurt as much as it might.

Cunningham

Boston fans are beginning to realize that they have a nice hero to get excited about—Will Cunningham, who boys left, field, William spent a couple of miles or less idle years with the Giants and nobody ever did hear much about him. When he first joined the Braves, he didn't stir up much excitement, either. William had been on the bench so long that he almost lost the baseball habit.

Now that he is acclimated to regular work again, he's a ball whale. He looks as good as any outfielder in the league. He has speed, and a mighty fine arm, and attaches just enough dash to his performances. Nobody ever has played long hits better on the difficult Wigwam field, and Cunningham has already cut off more extra base hits in a month or so than all the Brave outfielders who were parked in left for a couple of seasons back.



Siengel

Besides that, Bill is socking the gamble out of the home. He started the year poorly, was away down for three weeks or so. But since he has found himself, he is clicking off safeties with great regularity and is now well established in the .300 class. If he keeps on improving, he'll be one of the most valuable athletes in the game in a very short time.

TUFTS TO CLOSE SEASON WITH HARVARD

The entire Tufts student body is looking forward optimistically to a fourth consecutive victory over Old Jawn's Harvard baseball brigade this week-end at Tufts oval. Three times in succession the Tufts baseball team has brought home the bacon and supporters of this year's team are certain of a repetition.

Joe Kenneally

Harvard has had a not successful season but it will have a battle with the Tufts aggregation.

If Tufts wins, the old chapel bell on the hill will sound out a glorious ending to the season and bonfires will blaze. A victory over Harvard is always a great occasion for a Tufts team and the rivalry this year is as keen as ever.

Every member of the Brown and White is "tearin' to go and cover themselves with glory in the last combat of the season. Tufts defeated Springfield last Saturday, which win has given the Medfordites plenty of confidence.

Phil Spaulding will hurl for the Crimson, while Wilfred Morias will oppose him. Morias, the reliable southpaw who turned back Springfield, will be given a great ovation if he beats the Harvard invaders.

Phil Spaulding, Jack Hammond, Lou Gordon and Percy Jenkins are the powers in the Harvard line-up that may spoil the glorious day for the Jumbo student body.

SS. PETER & PAUL WIN FROM LINCOLNS, 8-3

Displaying good team work, SS Peter and Paul A. A. won over the Lincolns of Somerville, 8 to 3, yesterday at the Christopher J. Lee playground, South Boston. Downey, pitching for the Lincolns, had the SS. Peter and Paul batters guessing on the first three frames, but they finally solved his delivery.

Paton Leads Tigers

Princeton, N. J., June 9.—The election of Richard T. Paton of Princeton, N. J., as captain of the university tennis team for next year was announced today by the board of athletic control. Paton was a fixture on the tennis team this Spring and won most of his matches. He won his numerals as a member of the championship freshman tennis team two years ago.

EAGLE SHARPENS CLAWS FOR SECOND H. C. CLASH

Revenge is sweet. This maxim is the guiding star of the Boston College baseball nine as it enters its second game with Holy Cross. The Purple, which has triumphed in all but two games in the past thirty years, is well assured of victory as long as it possesses Ownie Carroll, the pride of college pitchers, but Frank McCrehan, hero of last year's B. C.-H. C. game, and of the recent clash with Princeton, hopes to prove a match for him.

McCrehan pitched the Worcester game, and held the Purple to three runs, one of which was the result of an error by Phillips. Last year, at Boston, he sprang into fame overnight by pitching the Eagle to a 4 to 1 victory. This year again, on a neutral ground, he hopes to repeat.

Frank McCrehan

Carroll, who followed Boston College but three hits on Fitton Field, is no big scare as far as the Eagle is concerned. The Purple infield, one of the fastest in the East in death on bunts, but during its last four games Boston College has perfected this type of game, in the hope that a squeeze play may win the game.

Four squeeze plays were successfully tried against Georgetown, and one against Princeton, all resulting in tallies. With the team playing hands-up baseball all Wednesday afternoon the mighty Purple horde may suffer its first defeat of the season.

A win for Boston College would necessitate the prolongation of the series, something that has happened but twice thus far in the history of Boston College-Holy Cross baseball.

Princeton, which was the ranking favorite for collegiate honors after Holy Cross, has proved the "Chuck" Darling third place duo to its recent defeats by Boston College and Harvard, and with the Yale series in the offing should no longer prove dangerous. It will probably be a case of the two Massachusetts colleges again fighting out the question of intercollegiate superiority.

SCHOOL SEASON WILL CLOSE THIS WEEK

By FRED C. LANE.

The school baseball teams are going into their last full week of baseball for the 1924 season. A few outfits will show their wares on the holiday of next week but the majority quit before Saturday.

Several titles were settled the past week. Andover, by trimming Exeter, laid claim to the preparatory school title, but this may be disputed by Dean which has a victory over Andover.

Somerville High tucked away the Suburban league flag by disposing of Newton. Although Somerville has another game to play on Wednesday against Hingle, it is a top heavy favorite to win and even a defeat will give it a tie for first, providing that Everett wins its final game on Wednesday against Medford.

In the District league, Jimmy Duffy's Jamaica Plain outfit is repeating its performance of last year when it won 11 straight league games and the title. When East Boston was downed by the Jamaica lads on Friday, the 1924 title was practically collected by the Duffyites.

There is at least one important tussle left in this race, for tomorrow Jamaica goes to Hyde Park. In the first game Jamaica came through 6 to 3 and seem to have the stock in trade to at least win. Duffy has a number of first class ball players. J. Costello in centre field is the slugger and can also take a turn on the mound. He will be back another year. E. Costello on third base is one of the best the season has produced, and Cronin, the southpaw twirler, has turned them all back.

In the Hub group, Mechanic Arts is away out in front without a setback. It has two games to go off its shoulder this week and must win one to hold its position. The big game will be played against Commerce at Walpole street tomorrow. Mechanics won a 4 to 2 verdict in the first game. Coach Dunn's crowd then goes against English on Thursday at the old ball park. The showing English made against Hub Blue team. Latin closed its season with a 4 to 1 victory against English.

CRIMSON WILL PLAY GREEN WEDNESDAY

Harvard is booked for two games this week. The exhilaration and joy over the victory in the Princeton series when the Crimson won the third and decisive game was followed by gloom over the disastrous result in the Holy Cross game.

But it may be a good thing for the team for it will teach them to be on their toes more and to play "Heads up" baseball.

Harvard will play Dartmouth on Wednesday. This game will conflict with the Boston College-Holy Cross game. The Eagle-Purple game will attract the baseball lovers, but the Harvard and Dartmouth men will attend the game at Soldiers Field irrespective of the other games that may be billed.

On Saturday Harvard will play Tufts at the Tufts Oval, Somerville.

Both Dartmouth and Tufts games will be preparatory for the two games with Yale next week, on June 17 at New Haven and on June 18 at Soldiers Field.

Spalding probably will pitch against Dartmouth. He cannot be blamed wholly for the bad defeat suffered at Worcester on Saturday. True, Holy Cross solves the way to beat him, but the plan was obvious, especially from a Barry coached team.

THREE TWI GAMES TO BE PLAYED TONIGHT

The Twilight League clubs are ready to make the drive down the stretch for the first half must be finished by July 4. Thus far it's a great contest and to judge from the scrap in season it's any club's race.

Many of the games postponed because of rain have been played off and the clubs are almost even with the schedule.

Three games are booked for tonight and all are important. The Millstreams are carded at Reading, Everett and the Dilboy Post Vets will play at South Boston.

STASIAK AND ZBYSZKO SHOULD FURNISH RUGGED BOUT

MOODY IS MENACE TO MALONE

By JACK CONWAY.

Boston will resume its place on the wrestling and boxing map this week after a ten-day period of illness. Two brilliant bouts are billed.

Stanislaus Stasiak, Polish wrestling hamper who recently scored a fall [illegible] Ed Gagler Lewis and then went on to defeat the champion with a left hook to the [illegible] and a right-hand punch to the [illegible] to receive one of the [illegible] defeats of his career when he met Stanislaus Zbyszko, veteran world champion and the wonder man of the athletic game in a two-out-of-three falls bout, will be staged in the Boston Arena on Thursday night, Jack Reiser is directing the affair.

Fistic fans will come in for their own on that night when the colorful Jack Moody, with twelve straight victories in Boston rings to his credit, [illegible] with the sensational Pennsylvania Welsh middleweight in a ten-round bout under the direction of the Suffolk A. A. at Mechanics Building on Friday night. This is the outstanding mid-dleweight match of the year and is expected to attract the largest crowd to see boxing bouts in Boston since Jeanny Wilson fought Pat McCarthy last December.

ZBYSZKO AND STASIAK WILL PRODUCE THRILLS.

There will be an abundance of thrilling moments when Stasiak and Zbyszko meet. There is natural [illegible] between this pair, as each defeats in the close of the Polish [illegible] Stasiak recently saw Zbyszko win over his brother, Wayne Zbyszko. After the contest Stanislaus declared he would toss Zbyszko three falls of an hour if he ever met the conqueror of his brother. Big Zbby has never been known to make the boasts and con-sequently it's a [illegible] of Stasiak has [illegible] great weight by mat [illegible] Zbyszko is a former world's [illegible] and one of the greatest [illegible] to ever step on a mat.

Stasiak recently gained interna-tional prominence when he virtually defeated Lewis. Stasiak scored the only fall of the match. He had the champion on the verge of a second fall when the latter used [illegible] to see "red." He knocked Lewis out with a couple of well-directed blows and was then dis-qualified by the title holder's hand-picked referee.

Stasiak and Zbyszko have agreed that a fall will not be awarded for [illegible] on Thursday night. Consequently the man who wins most falls in the six rounds should [illegible] other mat [illegible].

There will be a strong preliminary card. Angelo Taramarchi, Italian [illegible] champion will have [illegible] Norwegian title holder, as an opponent in the semi-final bout. [illegible] latest Italian mat marvel will tackle Count Zarrynoff in the first bout.

Paul Bowser has secured office ac-commodations at Room 20, No. 300 Washington street.

MALONE WILL HAVE TO STEP LIVELY TO WIN

Those persons who have been [illegible] for a knockout to come [illegible] Moody will be disappointed in the event of having their wish [illegible] Moody at the Suffolk A. A. on Friday night Moody is [illegible] for the best opponent Malone has been called upon to meet in a Boston ring.

The twenty-two year old Welshman [illegible] the greatest fighter developed in Great Britain during the generation. A glance at his remarkable record [illegible] serving to America last Fall bears out this statement. Moody [illegible] Leo Bogash of Rhode Island in eleven rounds a feat no other fighter has ever been able to accom-plish. He also stopped Jackie Clark who he defeated Pal Reed twice, George Robinson and several other prior opponents.

The Welshman comes from the [illegible] part of Wales that developed Jem Driscoll and Jimmy Wilde. He is one of those rare individuals who is [illegible] a hard boxer and terrific puncher. He saves his skill and speed will en-able him to get inside of Malone's de-fense and that his punch will knock out the St. Paul man.

Malone is training more carefully for this bout than for any contest in which he has ever engaged. He realizes it is the crucial battle of his career. And he is determined to win.

The winner of this match will be the logical opponent to clash with [illegible] of the Greb-Delaney con-test which takes place in New York the latter part of this month.

TONY JULIAN AND BYRON IN BROCKTON BOUT

Brockton, a very good boxing city when the sport is conducted proper-ly, has Tony Julian and Sailor Byron billed for a ten-round bout on Friday night.

School Games for This Week

Today—Brighton vs. Trade at Wal-pole street; Melrose at Reading. Can-ton at Mansfield.

Wednesday—Waltham at Newton Cambridge Latin at Brookline; Medford at Everett; Somerville at Rumford; Charlestown vs. Trade at Walpole street; Lowell at Lawrence; Winchester at Lexington; Marblehead at Malden; Concord at Needham; Franklin at Natick; Chelsea at Lynn Classical; Winthrop at Peabody.

Thursday—Dedham at Hyde Park; English vs. Mechanic Arts at Walpole street; Canton at Foxboro.

WILLS IN TEST TONIGHT WITH MADDEN

New York, June 9.—Harry Wills and Bartley Madden, who are to meet at the Queensboro Stadium, Long Island City, this evening, are on edge for this important fracas.

Harry Wills.

Both are confident of the outcome and both battlers declare they will win with a knock out.

The Queensboro folk have altered and remodeled their new arena and every precaution has been taken for the safety of patrons.

Seats will be provided for about 19,000 customers and if it doesn't rain or snow the opening show should pack 'em in.

A BIG "GATE."

When the Wills-Madden thing was first postponed the advance sale had exceeded $20,000 and since then less than $2,000 worth of these reserva-tions had been returned.

The match may not gross as much as it would in the May 12 spot but it is expected to do around $30,000 at least.

Wills must win decisively to es-tablish himself as a real contender for Dempsey's title. He sees a for-tune just ahead in the Firpo bout and Madden will have similar visions if he can go the route with the colored giant.

Bartley is a tough 'un. He can "take it" and Wills must be careful to avoid hurting his hands on Bart-ley's head.

The long delay in staging this fight made some changes necessary in the preliminaries. Jimmy Slattery and Jack Lynch will fight the six round semi final as originally pro-grammed but in place of Larry Es-tridge and Tommy Robeon the man agement has substituted a ten-round engagement between two good light weights, Ray Mitchell, of Phila-delphia, and Tommy O'Brien. There will be three other bouts.

WALTHAM TO PLAY NEWTON WEDNESDAY

One of the outstanding ball games on the school calendar this week brings two old rivals, Waltham and Newton, together on Wednesday at Newtonville. This is likely to be a real ball game, for the rival players consider the season a fairly suc-cessful one if they beat the other.

Newton closed its Suburban league season by losing to Somerville, 11 to 6, on Friday. An inning choked with errors took away Newton's lead over the Suburban league champions. Howard Whitmore will work on the mound against Waltham.

PRINCETON '28 WILL NOT PLAY CRIMSON

Princeton, N. J., June 8.—The Princeton freshman football team will play seven games next Fall, four at home and three away, it was announced today by the athletic as-sociation. The schedule, which does not provide a game with Harvard, follows: Oct. 11, Perkiomen at home; Oct. 18, Mercersburg at Mercers-burg and Peddie at Hightstown; Oct. 25, Exeter at home; Nov. 1, Kiski at home; Nov. 8, Yale fresh-men at New Haven; Nov. 14, Dart-mouth freshmen at home.

RHODE ISLAND BIDS FOR DAVIS CUP MATCH

Providence, R. I., June 9.—The executive committee of the Agawam Hunt Club has put in a strong bid to the Davis Cup committee of United States Lawn Tennis Associa-tion to have the preliminary Davis Cup matches done at Agawam Hunt in August. Agawam has been visited by George Wightman, president of the U. S. L. T. A., who looked the courts over thoroughly and consult-ed with Barnes Newberry, chairman of Agawam executive committee. He is said to have been favorably im-pressed with the facilities afforded.

CLARK TACKLES REAGAN IN GO AT LYNN

Buddy Clark of Salem and Nor-man Reagan of Brockton will clash in the main event of an out-door show to be staged by the Casino A. C. of Lynn at Grace at Electric Field tonight.

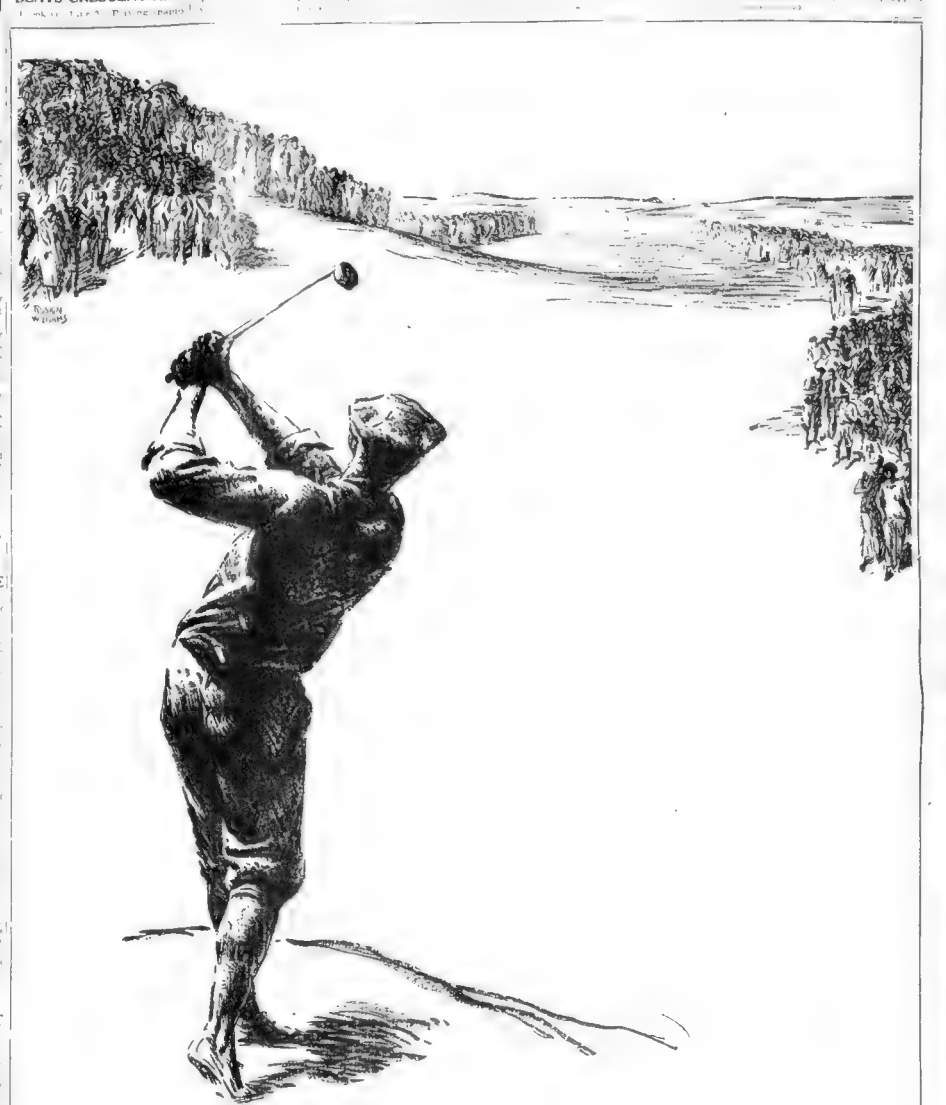
COLUMBUS ALL STARS PLAY WINTHROP B. B. C.

The Winthrop Baseball Club will play again at South Boston tomor-row night against the Columbus All Stars. Manager Lynch of the All Stars has signed practically a new club for the rest of the season. Jeff Meanno will be on the mound for the visitors.

Manager Lynch has two of his old players still with him, Frank Silva ex-Dean Academy star, will [illegible] centre field. Last Tuesday night Sil-va hit a homer, triple, double and single. Walter Lonergan will be in his old position at short stop. The game will begin at 6 p. m.

SUZANNE TO PLAY IN WIMBELDON TOURNEY

London, June 9. Suzanne Lenglen, world's woman tennis champion is to play in both the women's singles and doubles in the Wimbledon tour-nament. This fact became known last night when a telegram was re-ceived from the French girl an-nouncing her entry in both competi-tions. In the doubles she will play with Miss Elizabeth Ryan.



Such popularity must be deserved

LUCK may win an occasional match. But it never made a champ. Cups can't be won year after year unless they are deserved.

There are cup-winning cigarettes, too. All eyes today are watching Chesterfield—watching it win more smokers at the rate of over 1000 a day.

Such popularity is not luck. Chesterfields deserve it. They deserve it simply by right of their decidedly better taste.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. F. X. Mahoney
Boston Health Commissioner.

GIRLS between the ages of 12 and 17 years are subject to an obscure disease of which medical science knows little but which may be readily recognized by recognized. It is known as "chlorosis."

Dr. Mahoney.

The disease also interferes with the proper manufacture of blood in the body and the victim's blood becomes deficient in certain quantities. It appears from observation that blonde haired girls are more susceptible to the disease than are their dark haired sisters.

The girl who suffers from the disease often develops an unusual appetite for such substances as clay or chalk. Palpitation of the heart is another symptom, while constipation is common.

The treatment for this ailment is simple. The symptoms indicate that the system of the sufferer is lacking in iron and the family physician can easily supply this deficiency.

The habits of the sufferer must be carefully watched. Regular hours, wholesome food and plenty of rest are prime requisites if a cure is to be effected.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Kindly tell me what to do. Every few months my nose swells up, my ears hurt, and my teeth also.—M. M. C.

There are many causes for cervical adenitis, from which condition you are probably suffering. My suggestion is that you see a physician and have him determine what is the cause of this gland enlargement.

Last fall I strained my neck badly. The attending physician called it a torn ligament. I stepped ashing after a few weeks. The soreness extends up towards my ear. Can you advise?—H. M. P.

Go to your family physician or to the General Hospital and have an X-Ray taken. From the description of your symptoms, it seems to me that you are probably suffering from a displacement, either bones or cartilaginous, of the cervical vertebrae.

I have an itch all over my body since last September. It went away for a while, but has returned. There are no pimples or blisters. Two friends of mine have caught it, too.—M. G. W.

You are probably suffering from scabies, a skin disease due to a small parasite which is very contagious. I would advise you to consult a skin specialist or go to the out patient department of your local hospital or dispensary.

If Mrs. M. M. H., Springfield, will send her full name and address, will be glad to send her a booklet on the Care of the Baby.

MEDBURY SAYS---

By John P. Medbury

THE price of oats is getting so high that a lot of cowboys are now riding bicycles instead of horses.

HUNDREDS of Texas cow punchers are starting to herd cattle on velocipedes.

THERE are as many good roads there, in the West that it won't be long before they'll be able to go up and down the mountains on roller skates.

ONE farmer is so progressive that he is even training his cows to ride motorcycles.

THE cows enjoy this because they can get home so much quicker in the evening.

THE only trouble is that their milking is beginning to taste of gasoline.

A FEW years ago the cattle had to walk ten or fifteen miles a day and the farmers went broke buying corn plasters for them.

THE average rancher has a bicycle for every two cows. One cow rides on the seat and the other one rides on the handle bars.

IF a farmer happens to be poor his cattle have to go to and from the pasture on pogo sticks.

THE calves and colts use kiddie kars.

A WESTERN dairyman used to let his cows churn their own butter by riding in flivvers.

THERE'S nothing more picturesque than to see a Holstein sitting at the steering wheel of a touring car.

STILL, some cows are so highly bred that they won't ride in anything but a sedan.

THE pampered stock sit in the back and let the common cattle drive.

SOME of them have even tried to get into the motor clubs.

FAMOUS FIRSTS

By Mark Stuyvesant

SAMUEL RICHARDSON, born in the little town of Derbyshire, England, in 1689, has often been called "the father of the English novel." There are many who claim that this title rightly belongs to Defoe, but even they must admit that Richardson introduced to the man of letters a new literary form—a new type of fiction.

Even though Richardson received little more than a common grammar school education, he displayed his talent for writing very early in life. Evidently he was very serious-minded and sympathetic, too, because he won the confidence of all the love-sick girls in his town. They came to him always with their tales of woe or gladness and—knowing his gift with the pen—begged him to write letters of their long-sought beaus. He was always eager to help them. For he loved writing letters and he revelled in the romances in which he had so important a part.

Seemingly, young Samuel's letters brought the desired results, for soon his fame spread and all the people in the town who found their own efforts in letter-writing fruitless, came to him. And so Samuel learned to know people, and especially to look into the hearts of girls and women. What material for a potential novelist!

At seventeen he moved to Aldersgate and became a printer's apprentice. Being ambitious, a hard worker, and really an unusually intelligent youth, he advanced rapidly and soon opened a shop of his own—not, however, before he had married his master's daughter, as all good apprentices do.

But his fame as a letter-writer remained with him even after he had become a successful business man. Finally, two bookselling friends suggested that he prepare a model letter-writer for the many country people in England who couldn't manage their own correspondence. He agreed, but asked whether he might not also "instruct them how they should think and act in common cases"—for Richardson was always somewhat of a moralist.

While compiling this model letter-writer he happened to remember a story he had been told many years before of a maid who was spurned by her wilful master and who finally made him do what he had never planned to do—marry her. Thinking that this would make a splendid story, he set about writing it in the form of which he was master—letters. This is the history of Pamela, or Virtue Rewarded."

All England read it—talked about it—raved! Until then books were made up of imaginary people who did impossible things. But Richardson, with his keen insight into human nature and his sympathy and knowledge of the feminine mind and heart, wrote of real people in real situations.

He wrote "Clarissa," or, The History of a Young Lady," and other books, but by that time Fielding had already published his "Tom Jones," and the English novel was well on its way.

The Helping Hand

Needs Crib

Editor Helping Hand:

I wrote to you in the Spring for a carriage for baby George and some clothes for Elizabeth, aged 2½ years, who lost their mother last February. Their father went away and has not been heard from since. I received a nice carriage from Mrs. D. and a letter from Mrs. S., but she had already given to someone else. Now I wonder if any kind reader has a crib, for baby is growing and the carriage is not large enough, so he does not sleep well at night. I am unable to buy one, but would gladly pay express charges. I would also be glad to get a few dresses for Elizabeth. I do so want to keep these two little ones. I can give them enough to eat and good care, but it is hard to provide other things. MRS. M. A.

Editor Helping Hand:

If Mrs. C. R. G. will send to the enclosed address she will get a bed all complete. MRS. G.

Thank you. As some one else has offered to supply Mrs. C. R. G., we are sending the address of Mrs. E. W., who has limited sleeping quarters for a family of eight, in case you wish to extend your offer.

U. S. Steel Rallies After Hitting Its Low for Year in a Spotty Market

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

It is cheering, when so many people have become fond of pessimism, to note such developments as these:

The Buick Motor Company has added more than 500 men to its force.

Several idle blast furnaces in the Youngstown district of Ohio, have resumed operations.

"Since it is unusual at this time for a business concern to break sales records," the National Cash Register Company writes, "we believe you will be interested in knowing that our sales in May surpassed those of any other month in the entire forty years of N. C. R. history."

The stock market has not the ground during the last week.

Liberty bonds are selling at the highest prices ever touched.

The Federal Reserve Board fines that business is taking on a healthier tone and it looks for improvement that will last.

"Hoover, Davis and Wallace optimists," reads a Washington headline following an informal meeting of the Cabinet at which these members submitted reports.

The most influential copper authority in America, Dr. Edwin Kemmerer, has returned from Europe with an optimistic description of the outlook for exports of copper to the principal European countries. Quotations have already stiffened.

Dividend increases continue greatly to outnumber dividend reductions.

Congress has adjourned without passing any of the many drastic bills urged by radicals, a fact which has distinctly helped sentiment, particularly in railroad and financial circles.

Side by side with these favorable developments, however, are other foreign items offered here.

Cheap money will also tend to stimulate enterprises at home. While the country has not received tax reform, it has received substantial tax reductions, the effect of which cannot fail to be helpful.

America has less reason than any other country in the world for pessimism at this moment. Unemployment is unusually light. The great mass of wage-earners are well employed at the highest wages ever enjoyed by workers.

The building industry is quite extraordinarily active. Leading automobile authorities confidently declare that 1924 business promises to eclipse anything ever known before 1923 and some predict that even the 1923 records will be matched. The oil industry certainly is better off than it was some time ago. Paper production is increasing.

Allowing for the lower prices now ruling, retail trade as a whole has equalled that of a year ago, when cheerfulness and not pessimism was the rule. Mutual savings bank deposits have reached the record breaking total of $6,600,000,000, a half-billion gain for the year.

DELIVERIES OF LAKE COPPER ARE LOWER

Only 5,518,000 pounds of refined copper were shipped out of the Michigan district by boat in May, the first month of lake navigation. This is less than half the amount for the corresponding month in 1923, when 10,770,000 pounds were shipped. Deliveries last month were about 50 per cent. of current production.

PRICES ARE MIXED IN GRAIN FUTURES

Prices were mixed in Chicago grain futures. Quotations: Wheat—July, 104¼ to 104⅝; September, 105⅝ to 105¾; December, 108¼ to 108⅝. Corn—July, 78½ to 78¾; September, 73½ to 73¾; December, 71⅝ to 71¾. Oats—July, 46¼; September, 40⅞; December, 42 to 42¼.

CALL MONEY AT 5-YEAR LOWEST RENEWAL

An apparent effort to unsettle the general list by concentrating pressure on the steel shares in anticipation of another big drop in the May unfilled tonnage of the United Steel Corporation, to be made public June 10, met with little success, although U. S. Steel common duplicated its 1924 low of 94¼, while Bethlehem and Vanadium touched new bottom prices. Sympathetic evidence declined 1 to 3 points in a number of equipments and motors.

Steel rallied and investment buying of public utilities resulted in some good gains in those issues. International Telephone rising 2¾ to 76¾, a new 1924 top, and Virginia Railway and Power moving up 2 points.

Call money opened at 2½ per cent., the stock exchange's rate for 5 days.

Among issues at new 1924 lows were Lima Loco., U. S. Realty, American Sumatra, Orpheum Circuit pfd., Beagle and South Porto Rican sugar, Fleischmann and Philadelphia Co. were at new tops for the year.

H. Hoagland Cutler, Boston Stock Exchange, Edison rose a point at 169¾. Most changes were for fractions only.

Japanese Bonds at Low Record Show Uneasiness

In New York bond market, a drop in the new Japanese 6½ per cent. bonds to a new low record at 89⅝, reflected uneasiness over disturbances resulting from the Exclusion Act. Japanese 4s moved about a point lower. Mexican assented 4s also sold at a new low record at 19½.

Demand for the government's issues were unusually brisk with large Stocks changing hands. Prices were firm in other sections of the list with active bidding for an assortment of railroad liens.

Wall St. Gossip

SHARON STEEL Hoop is estimated to have earned to June 1 about $1,000,000 for common after charges and preferred dividends.

"I THINK business will pick up late in the Summer," says Vice-President Simpson of Sinclair.

ADJOURNMENT of Congress with its removal of uncertainty regarding legislation inspired buying in various sections of the list, but it was of cautious character.

NEW BOND offerings today were led by an issue of $15,000,000 State of Mississippi 4¾ per cents.

ANNOUNCEMENT is made that a new issue of $1,000,000 Carolina, Clinchfield & Ohio 5 per cent. equipment trust has been sold to yield 4 to 5.39 per cent.

BULL MOVE IN SIGHT, SAYS BROOKMIRE

Brookmire Economic Service finds a bull move is in sight, even if not close at hand, saying:

Four of the six factors for the position of our Barometer No. 1 as of June 15 are favorable and in final form. Of these four only one—the British Money Rate—is any less favorable when three speculations, Federal Bank Deposits, and United States Money Rates are all decidedly more favorable. Some of the figures concerning the physical volume of production are also available and indicate that this factor will make almost as radical movement in a favorable direction as did in an unfavorable direction for the February 15 bearish turn.

Under these conditions it seems inevitable that the movement for bullish sale will be mathematically registered on June 15, indicating that the interest rate will be a favorable element, which started in February, should be seen before July 1. As Barometer No. II, applying to rail road and public utility stocks, was already favorable, this will place all of our barometers on the bullish side of the market.

Mathematically this would indicate that the rest of June would be the time to accumulate stocks for the next major upward movement, and since markets rarely begin any rapid upward movements earlier than the middle of August, we might well add the probability that the accumulation period is likely to cover the next eight or nine weeks.

As usual, the raw material stocks,

Somebody Found It

Most everything that is lost by one person is soon found by another. You can greatly enhance your possibility of recovering a lost article by advertising where the finder will seek your ad.

The Lost and Found column below has proven very effective.

SPEND MINUTES AND SAVE HOURS

Don't shop the weary way. Save your energy—your time and money, too. A few moments with The American's classified page will save you hours on your feet.

"recovered collie—without collar"

I take pleasure in informing you that my beautiful collie was found by advertising in the Boston American's Lost and Found column, despite the fact that he had lost his collar with address.

I can highly recommend your advertising department.

Have You an Automobile?

If Not, Cease Being a Wing-Clipped Goose

The business management of the Boston American has arranged a small booklet called "Automobile Tours" to be sent to readers of the Boston American upon receipt of fifteen cents in stamps.

The little books tells "where to go and how to get there." It offers suggestions and definite information valuable to all automobile owners. The number of books printed is limited. If interested, you are requested to fill out the coupon below, specifying the kind of car, tires, gasoline and oil you use. You are urged to supply this information, as it is of assistance to motorcar ownership.

The book has fourteen pages and contains maps in colors; nine tours with speedometer mileage. The latest State and national pole markings and route junctions are clearly shown. The price of the book does not cover the cost of printing.

Those that have a car, and that are interested in the compact book of suggestions for using it, will kindly mail the coupon at the bottom. This is intended, however, especially for those that have NOT a car, but that OUGHT to have one.

Of all the year this is the best time, as Summer approaches, for making an automobile really worth while.

The air is full of life, the country is beautiful and the roads near the big cities are delightful.

There is no better relaxation for children after a week at school than a ride into the country on Saturday, with their young friends to add pleasure to the day—a family united in its pleasures is a happy family.

For those that are grown, a motor trip in Summer is most restful, inspiring and instructive.

At the week-end, to prepare for the struggle and work of Monday morning, there is nothing better than motoring, away from stones and bricks, to brown fields and green woods. The Summer sky offers inspiration and strength to whoever will come.

Not to have an automobile is to be just HALF alive.

One of the saddest sights in life is a wild goose, caught, its wings clipped, so that it cannot fly, wandering about a pasture with the tame geese, looking up wistfully as the wild birds fly past.

Many human beings are like that wild goose and, unlike him, their condition is their own fault.

Once the human race was entirely wingless. It moved slowly over the earth at such speed as its own legs or a horse could supply.

Then came steam and the locomotive to carry human beings in CROWDS on journeys of necessity.

Now there is the automobile, the individual wings for every family, for every little group and for every little individual.

You wouldn't think much of a goose that COULD fly if it did NOT fly.

The man that MIGHT have wings, that MIGHT go out to see the country, the lakes, the hills, the beautiful Summer sunsets, and come home feeling that he is part of the world and KNOWS THE EARTH ON WHICH HE LIVES, is to be pitied if he lets the chance go by him.

But there need be no such man.

Some suffer from lack of imagination. They have walked or ridden in street cars or trains all their lives. They know that millions have found happiness, closer family life, better health, thanks to the automobile. But they have put it off.

They have said, perhaps, "I cannot afford it, JUST YET." The fact is that they cannot afford NOT to have an automobile.

The most expensive thing is poor health.

The most depressing thing is a dull life.

We are on the earth for a few years. We ought to see the earth, travel it, know it, and possess it.

And that the automobile alone makes possible.

If you haven't got an automobile, GET ONE, the best that you can afford. And remember that for every purse there is an automobile, within the owner's price, that will carry him from fifty thousand to a hundred thousand miles over the earth's surface with very little expense.

If you already have your car, and if you are interested in the little book of automobiling tours that the Boston American Automobile Department has published, please fill out and mail with fifteen cents in stamps, the following coupon:

Appreciate Criticism in a Spirit of Thankfulness.

EVER notice the different way that different persons take criticism?

There is no truer way to judge, no surer key to a person's mind.

You know the person who always springs to his or her own defense the minute an action or an opinion is questioned or criticised.

You know there are certain ones whom you never criticise openly, but with whom you would not agree if they asked you.

You know that some of these certain ones are quite given to asking advice.

But you also know that if you do not coincide with their ideas at once you never hear the last of it as long as they have tongues to wag with.

Why is it that some folks are so fired by criticism?

The reason is that their vanity is touched up.

They are hoping that you will defer to them entirely.

They really believe that what they think on the subject is the last word.

And as for being "set" in their ways, of course they would not own it.

But "set" they are, and if one really wants to learn and grow in knowledge there must be a complete change of mind in regard to criticism.

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By HELEN ROWLAND

A MAN'S Wife may be the leading lady in his life—but his Private Secretary is the stage director, scene shifter, prompter, property man and "ensemble."

She is at once his shield, his watch-dog, his buffer, his alibi, his memory, his solace and his censor.

Helen Rowland

She is the knock about her between him and all the office pests. He can send her out to stave off the disgruntled client, the irate customer, the important salesman, or the bill collector, in the sweet assurance that his little buffer and rebuffer will return with the triumphant smile of the Tiger on her placid face.

She is his alibi for all his careless mis-statements, incorrect quotations and grammatical errors—the shield behind which he dodges the barrage which he throws up when attacked. Verily "misread notes" and "typographical errors" have saved many a man from ruin!

She is the Star Witness for "overtime at the office." He can always PROVE by her that he was "detained on business"—even when the "business" was only a game of pinochle or Kelly pool. But no man can prove anything by a wife unless it's SO: because a wife WILL ARGUE the matter.

His secretary is his daily reminder, a rack on which to hang his cares and all the responsibility of keeping his appointments. He relies upon her as he does his watch—and, somehow, she never has to urge or nag him to keep his luncheon dates, as his wife has to urge him to be on time for dinner.

* * *

She is his solace and, at the same time, his censor—the little "safety vault" in which he keeps all his secrets, and confides in [illegible] of self-pity how "misunderstood" and "unappreciated" he is.

* * *

Yet she "holds him up to his better self," and is a check upon his temper, his extravagance, his expansive swearing and his extreme Summer negligee.

* * *

A wife may become a "habit"—but a P. S. is a positive addiction. And once a man becomes ADDICTED t ohis Personal Stenographer, he finds her as necessary as his three meals a day and as indispensable as his hat.

* * *

Oh, yes, "P. S." may stand for Private Secretary, Personal Stenographer, or postscript — but it really means Precious Jewel!

THE HELPING HAND

Letters Not Answered Personally. No Attention Paid to Telephone Calls or Anonymous Letters. No Names Published.

Young Mother of 10

Editor Helping Hand:

I am 35 years old and the mother of ten children, the oldest 13 years old and the youngest twins, 10 weeks old. My husband worked in the roundhouse for eleven years and the day the twins were born he got laid off with fifteen other men. One of the twins is very sick and the doctor says it has got to stay out in the air. I have had no sleep for a week. I have no carriage to put the twins in. My oldest girl has to stay home from school and carry it in her arms. I used to take in washing, but am not able to now. The school nurse says she would pay express on carriage if somebody had a twin carriage to give away. It would help me an awful lot.

MRS. F. P.

Sends $5

Editor Helping Hand:

I regret to be obliged to disappoint Mrs. W. H. on the discarded suit as the fireman in our block applied the helping hand and took the coat and vest. I will forward the pants and ties and will ask that you kindly forward five dollars equivalent to the enclosed check as a partial compensation for the disappointment.

L. A. O'N.

Thank you. We have forwarded the money as you ask. We wish everyone were as conscientious about disappointing those they have promised to help.

Lame Boy Needs Hammock

Editor Helping Hand:

I am a little lame boy, twelve years old, and have had infantile paralysis for ten years. I have been very sick for three months and have not been able to go to school. I would very much like a couch hammock if some kind reader has one that he has no further use for. I would also like some books or magazines as I am very fond of reading.

JAMES.

Encloses $2 for Mrs. O. B.

Editor Helping Hand:

Please forward the enclosed $3 to Mrs. O. B. It will help a bit. What a wonderful work you are doing. In memory of G. Carrol, Jr.

MRS. W. E. M.

Thank you. The money has been forwarded to Mrs. O. B., and as we are not sure that we have your name and address we are taking this way of letting you know how grateful we are.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

WHERE the meadow-lark's nest in the ragged old ledge; where the willows bend low over green rush and sedge, where the gray primrose creeps to the river-bank's crest, and the proud scarlet poppies in splendor are dressed; where the white clover nods to the breeze all day through, and the buttercups brim with the sunlight and dew, runs a soft woodland whisper that's set to a tune, and it hints of the joy that is coming in June! It tells over and over again of the rose; how in glory of yellow and crimson it glows; how the mocking bird pours out his heart to the moon, and the swinging world pauses to listen. . . in June. But the bird and the rose miss the gladness I know, when the sky is all blue and the earth all aglow, and the star that peers down from high heaven to see, gains no glimpse of the bliss that is dawning for me! For when June comes, with riot of color and song, with her garlands of beauty that bloom the day long, it will bring a gift fairer than rose drenched in dew, it will gladden my eyes with the wonder called . . . you! Straightway fitting a sense that earth's loveliness now should but mirror the beauty that shines on your brow, that the pool strewn with stars when the twilight mists rise should give only a hint of the glow of your eyes. But, though barren December lay bleak on the world, with the dread, pallid flag of the storm king unfurled, were you near, Winter's self would don roseate hue, for it's June in my heart when my eyes rest on you!

DR. FRANK CRANE ON THE HIDDEN VALUES OF GOOD WILL

By Dr. Frank Crane

THERE are all sorts of hidden values in Good Will that are not apparent to the naked eye.

Good Will seems to be a mere aerial, sentimental something, God-like perhaps, but, like God, "without body or parts."

It takes judgment that has considerably ripened, experience that is rather mature, an insight beyond the ordinary, to appreciate the solid values of Good Will.

The successful grocer understands it. He knows that it is mere Good Will that obligates his customers to keep on trading with him even when they have moved to another part of town.

The clothier understands it. He knows that it is Good Will that repeats his name and urges his goods from mouth to ear. Good Will holds his old trade and drums up new.

Men in any business catering to the public soon find out that the very mudsill of permanent prosperity is this same airy nothing, this breath of faith, this flash of sentiment we call Good Will.

And Good Will is just as valuable in every home relation as it is in the business of buying and selling.

Good Will makes the Church cohere and flourish; and when Good Will departs it is as if each stone of the edifice left its fellows and the building crumbles.

Good Will is the cement of any social group such as the lodge, the club, the society, the association; also the company, the works, the factory, the organization; that is to say, any collection of human beings that hold together for the purposes either of play or of work, for study or for diversion.

Good Will is the centripetal force of the race holding men together in orderly unity; without it the centripetal forces of Ill Will, Hate, Doubt and Suspicion would speedily reduce all our civilization back to the chaos of savagery.

Good Will is no less necessary among nations.

It is no economic thing that has reduced Europe first to a shambles and following that to a quarreling bankruptcy; it is nothing but Ill Will.

If some Pasteur could find a serum which would destroy the hate germ and inject it into the veins of Frenchmen and Germans, Polish and Russians and the other European nations, business would revive, starvation would cease, the franc and the mark would come back and all would be well.

All sorts of ingenious theories have been propounded to explain why nations do not get along with each other. The real explanation is very simple. It is plain as a pike staff. It is because they cling to Hate and other members of the Hate family including Pride, Sensitiveness, Envy, the lust to rule and similar hallucinations of the distorted ego.

If French and Germans would devote one thousandth part of the effort they now expend in hate toward making the other nation love, the situation would speedily clear up.

So, also, the intelligent labor leader seeks the Good Will of Capital; the capitalist who has common sense seeks the Good Will of Labor.

And those of our own country who spread distrust and enmity toward any other country are really traitors to the commonwealth.

To any country in the world the Good Will of other nations means trade, prosperity and peace and all good things.

While war and the preparation for war, tariff barriers, passports and all the other ill formed and ill smelling brood hatched from the egg of Ill Will are they whose effect constantly tends to make this world an indecenter place to live in.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON ANIMALS AND GHOSTS

By Garrett P. Serviss,
Famous Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

THERE are, and always have been, people believing that the lower animals, down at least to the insects, have souls. And indeed, it is difficult to disconnect the ideas of intelligence and of spirit or soul. So whenever a dog, or a horse, exhibits what its owner regards as evidence of thought, or of affection, an almost irresistible feeling arises that the animal has as good a claim to future existence after bodily death as has its master, who is only an animal of superior organization.

If once we admit this, we must admit its corollaries and consequences. I am not aware that any of the "disembodied spirits" which haunt the seance rooms have appeared in the forms of favorite dogs deceased, or that any message from beyond the grave has conveyed the information that spirit animals inhabit there with the human kind, as they were used to doing in this life.

At any rate, if we are to believe what spiritists tell us, the lower animals often exhibit a sensitiveness to spirit influences and a power of perceiving the presence of disembodied souls keener than those of human beings. Thus, in a remarkable case, which I analyzed some months ago, occurring in France, a dog was described as having shown unmistakable signs of knowing that a spirit was present before his human companions became, or thought they became, aware of it. But such cases are not infrequent in the records of the societies for physical research. I sometimes saddle horse, on a lonely road at night, pricks up his ears and shies—at nothing, as it seems, to his rider. But later something develops which leads to the belief that the horse saw, or in some way perceived, the presence of a ghost. Sometimes it is a cat which exhibits this alleged sensitiveness to mysterious presences.

It is significant that in all these cases, as far as I know, the dominant impression upon the percipient animal is described as one of the utmost terror—in short, the same effect that is produced upon their human companions, only more frankly acknowledged and acted upon. The dog or other animal either runs away in affright or crouches, completely demoralized, under chairs, beds, or in corners, sometimes moaning in abject terror.

Not infrequently such evidences of sudden fear exhibited by an animal furnish the only support for the inference that supernatural beings are in presence. The human spectators see nothing, though, naturally enough, in the circumstances, they imagine that they "feel something strange." It is well known that cats, and probably many other animals, have keener vision in the dark than men have. It might, then, be inferred, by those who take such matters seriously, that these creatures actually see mysterious forms too faintly outlined to be visible to human eyes. The animals' hearing is also usually sharper than ours.

But the greater acuteness of their senses is a circumstance which faces both ways. If the animals are able to see faint objects beyond our visual range, and to hear delicate sounds below the level of audibility for us, it does not follow that what they see or hear is of a supernatural nature. Their terror may have no such origin as is ascribed to it. The basis of their alarm may be only the universal fear of bodily harm from unfamiliar objects. A house shies at a mere bit of white paper, not because he has a fear of ghosts, or any idea of them, but because it is something new to the sight, while experience has taught him that unfamiliar things are best avoided until their disposition and capabilities become known.

Now that spiritist investigation is becoming so common, it might be a good idea for the investigators to take dogs and cats into alliance. I should really like to see how a cat would behave herself at a seance.
